At Gulf Blockade

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Arab and Israeli gunners fired for 40 minutes Monday along the Gaza Strip, while far across the Sinai Peninsula Saudi Arabia announced deployment of troops to support Egypt's Aqaba Gulf blockade. The Saudis said their fledgling air force was at the disposal of the Arab cause.

The U.N. Security Council in New York again sought ways to avert a wide-open clash of forces in the Middle East.

The bursts of sporadic firing once more abated without any consequential damage reported.

Israeli machine guns answered Arab mortar and machinegun fire in the sand dunes of the Egyptian-ruled Gaza Strip.

Israeli witnesses said the Arab fire came from the Palestine Liberation Army—PLA—an organization of refugees in the strip, and not from regular Egyptian troops.

As the guns blazed, a radio broadcast from Syria, Egypt's ally in the confrontation with Israel, proclaimed conditions are ripe for "the Arab battle of destiny."

War fever mounted in Cairo. Egyptian crowds at a mass rally roared, "On to Tel Aviv!"

Israel took defense precautions.

At the United Nations, the United States urged the 15-nation Security Council to ask all sides in the Middle East "to exercise restraint and forego belligerence."

Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg made it clear the United States considers an Egyptian blockade of the Gulf of Aqaba a belligerent act.

Egypt countered with a statement that Israel has no right to navigate in the gulf and said it cannot be classified an international waterway.

In Amman, Jordan, Mecca Radio announced that Saudi Arabian troops have taken positions along the Aqaba Gulf in what the broadcast called a united Arab front.

In Jordan, troop reinforcements and tanks and armored vehicles passed through Amman to take up positions along Jordan's border with Israel.

Cairo radio announced that Egypt's National Assembly voted to give President Gamal Abdel Nasser power to issue directives "that will have the power of law" in all security matters, including the right to mobilize the nation's material and human resources.

Prime Minister Levi Eshkol told Israel's Parliament in Jerusalem he expects the big Western powers to make a combined effort soon to insure that the Strait of Tiran and the Gulf of Aqaba, closed by Egypt to Israeli shipping, will remain open to all ships without discrimination.

Eshkol said President Johnson expressed the U.S. attitude toward the blockade and this had been repeated to Foreign Minister Abba Eban on his visit to Washington last week. The prime minister reiterated that Israel considers the blockade of the strait an act of aggression and it would reserve the right of self-defense.

Israel prepared for the worst. All newspapers published air raid alert and civil defense instructions and told people to store a seven-day food and water supply. Wide strips of tape were being placed over office windows to prevent flying glass.

A dispatch from Tel Aviv said tension increased in Israel after Nasser announced Sunday he could never be persuaded to drop his blockade of the Gulf of

Communist Mortar Fire Touches Off New Ground Action

SAIGON (AP)—U.S. Marines battled North Vietnamese regulars for control of a hill near the demilitarized zone Monday and American Army troops were locked in a fight with an enemy force of unknown size on the coastal lowlands, 325 miles northeast of Saigon.

The new flareup in ground action came as Communist gunners dumped mortar rounds into the Buddhist center of Hue on the northern coast and Viet Cong terrorists followed it up by bombing a Hue hotel where members of the Polish-Canadian-Indian International Control Commission made their headquarters. The Hue attacks killed four persons and wounded 17. A driver for the commission was killed but commission members were not hurt. They were reported out of the hotel at the time.

In the major action reported during the day, a company of the U.S. 25th Infantry Division locked with an enemy force near the coastal town of Duc Pho.

U.S. spokesmen said the action began when the enemy force opened up at 2:30 a.m. with a barrage of mortar fire, automatic weapons and small arms. The U.S. troops returned the fire and at daybreak began a sweep of the area.

Fighting was reported still going on at noon, but several hours later the U.S. command in Saigon said it had no fresh reports on the action.

Initial reports listed 29 enemy dead, but U.S. casualties were not reported.

South Carolina Area Evacuated As TNT Blazes

SPARTANBURG, S.C. (AP)—A wide area of Spartanburg County was evacuated Monday when a boxcar containing 220,000 pounds of TNT caught fire after a derailment, but the TNT apparently burned without exploding.

Late Monday afternoon officials found the skeleton of the burned-out boxcar and said the major danger had passed.

Firefighters went to the wreckage to douse the remaining flames, but the evacuation of all residents within a two-mile area remained in effect. This involved about 200 people.

The fire started when three tank cars of alcohol derailed and ignited half a mile from the crossroads community of Switzer and 18 miles south of Spartanburg in northwestern South Carolina.

The train, Atlantic Coast Line's freight No. 283, was carrying the TNT from the Volunteer Army Ammunition Plant at Chattanooga, Tenn., to the Holston Army Ammunition Point in Tennessee.

A spokesman at the Chattanooga plant said TNT will explode if subjected to intense heat and pressure.

Another boxcar, believed to be adjacent to the one containing the TNT, was loaded with Army ammunition. Snipes said the ammunition was of the Army's Class 3 encased in plastic shells. He said this type ammunition would not explode unless subjected to intense heat.

"But there again, we don't know what to expect," the sheriff said.

The freight, en route northward from Augusta, Ga., consisted of 78 cars. The middle section of about 35 cars left the tracks shortly after 8 a.m. Three tank cars containing alcohol and other chemicals exploded and caught fire.

Smoke and flames shot 3,500 feet into the air and heat generated by the flames prevented firemen from getting near enough to fight the fire.

Trainmen managed to move the cars in the front section of the train to safety, along with some rear cars.

But later the overturned cars ignited and the flames progressed slowly toward the gray-blue cars containing the explosives. For a time, firemen couldn't find the cars containing the explosives. They were located by a spotter plane about midday, but by then it was too late to get to them.

Some of the cars toppled onto U.S. 221 which runs alongside the tracks. This main artery was closed to traffic, as were all rural and connecting roads in the area.

Quiet Purge Hits Police In Moscow

Leaders Of Secret Unit Being Fired After Boss Ouster

By HENRY S. BRADSHER

MOSCOW (AP) — The leadership of the Soviet secret police has been quietly purged since its boss was suddenly fired 10 days ago in an apparent Kremlin power play, informed sources said Monday.

They said the key men of ousted Vladimir Y. Semichastny have been transferred to comfortable but obscure jobs.

Semichastny was chairman of the Committee for State Security, the secret police organization known from its Russian initials as the KGB. Tass announced Monday that he had been appointed first deputy premier of the Soviet Union's Ukraine region, a minor post.

He was succeeded as KGB boss by Yuri V. Andropov, 52, a secretary of the Soviet Communist party who for a decade has handled party relations with Communist parties in Communist-ruled nations.

According to the informants, the decision to fire Semichastny and put in Andropov was taken quickly by party leaders. One report said the whole thing was arranged in six hours.

Some Plan Homage In Form Of Protest

Americans Paying Tribute Today To Men, Women Who Died In War

By The Associated Press

Americans pay tribute today, this nation's 99th Memorial Day, to the men and women who have died for their country in battles from Bull Run to Bien Hoa. Some groups planned their homage in the form of protest.

A group calling itself the "Ad Hoc Veterans' Committee for Memorial Day Peace Action" planned a procession with muffled drums and a flag draped in black through the streets of Washington, D.C. to protest the war in Vietnam. A spokesman said members of veterans groups from New York, New Jersey, Chicago, Detroit, Philadelphia and Miami will participate.

In Chicago, the Committee of Clergy and Layman Concerned about Vietnam planned its second annual Memorial Day service for peace, with some 1,000 expected to participate.

In many cities across the nation the day was to bring the traditional parades and speeches with businesses and banks closed.

As usual, the most spectacular ceremony was planned for Arlington National Cemetery at a white marble tomb inscribed: "Here rests in honored glory an American soldier known but to God."

Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, will represent President Johnson at the 11 a.m. wreath-laying ceremonies at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier and will then speak at the Grand Army of the Republic Memorial Day Service.

While Memorial Day — also known as Decoration Day — is to honor Americans who died in all wars since the Civil War, the focus today was on Vietnam.

In a ceremony at New Brunswick High School in New Jersey, a Silver Star will be awarded posthumously to Marine Pfc. Richard J. Anasiewicz, killed in Vietnam last year by sniper fire while helping a wounded buddy to safety.

Mr. and Mrs. Jose Fernandez of Los Lunas, N.M. will take part in services at Santa Fe's National Cemetery. Their son, Army Spec. 4 Daniel Fernandez, 21, was killed in Vietnam in February, 1966, when he threw himself on a grenade to protect companions on a patrol. For that action he was posthumously awarded the Medal of Honor.

It will be a disappointing Memorial Day for Joseph R. Romano of Portland, Maine. It will be the first time since he came to the United States from Italy in 1913 that he hasn't marched with a band in a parade honoring the war dead of his adopted land.

Romano's band was a temporary casualty of a fire last month that destroyed their arrangements and some instruments and uniforms.

"My wife says I'm too sentimental," he commented. "She's right, of course."

There will be wreath-laying ceremony at Antietam, the Civil War battlefield near Sharpsburg, Md.

And a special ceremony will be held aboard the USS Olympia, Adm. George Dewey's flagship in the Spanish-American War. Veterans of that war will toss a wreath into the Delaware River at Philadelphia.

Although there are Memorial Day ceremonies in all 50 states, the District of Columbia and U.S. territories every May 30, eight Southern states officially celebrate a Confederate Memorial Day either before or after May 30.

Alabama, Florida, Georgia and Mississippi held ceremonies on April 26. Kentucky, Louisiana, Tennessee and Texas observe the June 3, birthday of Jefferson Davis, who served as president of the Confederacy during the Civil War.

The first Memorial Day was May 30, 1868, by order of Gen. John A. Logan, commander in chief of the Grand Army of the Republic.

Summer Season Opened By Area Parks And Pools

Tri-state district parks and swimming pools, if not already open, will launch the summer recreation season today.

The Thompson Park swimming pool here was to open today at 1 p.m., weather permitting.

Joseph Walters, park manager, said the pool and bathhouses have been prepared for the summer season.

The pool will be open from 1 to 9 p.m. on the weekends until after schools close. Then, beginning June 10, it will be opened daily.

The park proper has been readied and several picknickers already have availed themselves of the shelters, Walters said.

There are 35 individual tables scattered throughout the park, while 500 can be accommodated in the No. 1 pavilion and 140 each in the other two shelters.

The seating has not been completed at the amphitheater, but this project will be finished before the summer is over. A series of band concerts has been booked, beginning in the latter part of June, Walters said. The schedule will be announced later.

Beaver Creek State Park off the Bell School Rd. is open for picnicking daily until 10:30 p.m. Campers and fishermen are permitted in the park overnight.

More area has been cleared of underbrush and weeds to accommodate visitors and there are more than 100 tables in the park, according to Elmer Hile, manager.

The park features hiking trails and is noted for its natural beauty.

The public beach at Guilford Lake State Park near Lisbon also opened its summer season today at 10 a.m.

Nelson Hively, park manager, said the beach facilities are open until sunset.

Three college students will serve as lifeguards.

The swimming area at Raccoon Creek State Park in Beaver County was opened Saturday and will observe hours of 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. for the remainder of the summer.

There are boating, fishing, picnicking and other outdoor facilities in the sprawling park, which is open daily from 7 a.m. to 10 p.m.

East Palestine's City Park had its annual "free day" Saturday, with 755 taking dips. The pool will be open today from 1 to 9 p.m., from 4 to 9 p.m. during school days and from 1 to 9 p.m. the rest of the summer.

The park at Palestine has tennis courts, basketball, picnic pavilions and other facilities.

Traffic Toll For Holiday Passes 400

CHICAGO (AP) — The toll of lives in Memorial Day weekend traffic accidents passed 400 Monday on the way to a predicted record.

The number of deaths on the nation's streets and highways since Friday evening reached 400 by Monday midafternoon.

The pace was about five per cent behind that in last year's three-day Memorial Day weekend, but Howard Pyle, president of the National Safety Council, said this was no ground for complacency.

"There is a fourth day in the holiday period this year," Pyle said. "And additionally the last day of a holiday period is the deadliest because that is when vacationers are hurrying home."

The record number of traffic fatalities in any Memorial Day weekend was set at 542 last year. The safety council estimated this year's toll would be between 650 and 750.

The count for the weekend is taken from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Tuesday. During a comparable nonholiday 102-hour weekend, May 12-16, an Associated Press survey tallied 560 traffic deaths.

For the most recent four-day Memorial Day period, 1961, the figure was 462.

Fire Damage Set At $4,000 In City Home

Damage to the building and contents has been set at $4,000 in a fire that destroyed one room of a house at 421 Gardendale Ave. about 4 p.m. Monday.

One fireman was injured.

Chief Alfred VanDyne said the home, owned by Donald Whitney, received damage to the bedroom, where the flames were confined, and smoke and heat damage to other parts of the structure.

Firemen said the blaze was caused by a cigarette Whitney left on a bed when he left for work about 2 p.m. The flooring of the bedroom was burned out as well as a partition between rooms.

The fire was discovered by Whitney's father, who was working in the basement when he smelled smoke. Before turning in the alarm, he tried to get to the second floor but couldn't because of the intense heat and

Market Summit Meeting

De Gaulle Being Pressed On Britain's Market Bid

ROME (AP) — At the first summit meeting of European Common Market leaders in six years, President Charles de Gaulle of France was pressed Monday to permit speedy negotiations for Britain's entry into the six-nation community.

But he appeared to have already won his point on keeping European political unity a distant hope.

The six heads of government sat together in the baroque splendor of Rome's city hall — where the Common Market's Treaty of Rome was signed on March 25, 1957—to celebrate a decade of spectacular economic growth.

The pressure on De Gaulle to let Britain in on this progress came in a dramatic keystone speech by President Giuseppe Saragat of Italy, and also in a maneuver spearheaded by West Germany to let Britain attend a forthcoming meeting of market foreign ministers.

With De Gaulle seated directly in front of him in a row set aside for heads of government, Saragat said in a 30-minute speech that he hoped negotiations for British entry "can begin soon."

At the same time, informants disclosed that four of the six foreign ministers here had decided not to press for any political collaboration beyond a De Gaulle-favored arrangement for periodic meetings of the ministers on foreign policy matters.

Saragat said in his speech that after a decade of development that "surpassed the most optimistic predictions," the community of France, Italy, West Germany, Belgium, the Netherland and Luxembourg

Costs Aired On Wellsville Road Project

LISBON — Relocation of Route 7 through Wellsville will cost an estimated $8,000,000, Levi (Jack) Kimball of the Ohio Highway Department said here Monday.

The new deputy director of Division 11 at New Philadelphia said Wellsville's share of the cost will be 5 per cent or $400,000. He was at the Courthouse to discuss the costs with John Ursu, Columbiana County Engineer.

Ursu said he presumes the construction costs will be divided 5 per cent each from the state and Wellsville, and the federal government will furnish 90 per cent.

Ursu said Kimball reported if the county puts up $50,000 of the $400,000 and Wellsville puts up $3,000 per year "forever" the state will build and maintain the relocation.

As an alternative, the state would consider building the Route 7 relocation without any help from Wellsville if the county engineer takes over maintenance of state Route 558 — a 13-

Traffic Toll For Holiday Passes 400

CHICAGO (AP) — The toll of lives in Memorial Day weekend traffic accidents passed 400 Monday on the way to a predicted record.

The number of deaths on the nation's streets and highways since Friday evening reached 400 by Monday midafternoon.

The pace was about five per cent behind that in last year's three-day Memorial Day weekend, but Howard Pyle, president of the National Safety Council, said this was no ground for complacency.

"There is a fourth day in the holiday period this year," Pyle said. "And additionally the last day of a holiday period is the deadliest because that is when vacationers are hurrying home."

The record number of traffic fatalities in any Memorial Day weekend was set at 542 last year. The safety council estimated this year's toll would be between 650 and 750.

The count for the weekend is taken from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Tuesday. During a comparable nonholiday 102-hour weekend, May 12-16, an Associated Press survey tallied 560 traffic deaths.

For the most recent four-day Memorial Day period, 1961, the figure was 462.

Fire Damage Set At $4,000 In City Home

Damage to the building and contents has been set at $4,000 in a fire that destroyed one room of a house at 421 Gardendale Ave. about 4 p.m. Monday.

One fireman was injured.

Chief Alfred VanDyne said the home, owned by Donald Whitney, received damage to the bedroom, where the flames were confined, and smoke and heat damage to other parts of the structure.

Firemen said the blaze was caused by a cigarette Whitney left on a bed when he left for work about 2 p.m. The flooring of the bedroom was burned out as well as a partition between rooms.

The fire was discovered by Whitney's father, who was working in the basement when he smelled smoke. Before turning in the alarm, he tried to get to the second floor but couldn't because of the intense heat and

Market Summit Meeting

De Gaulle Being Pressed On Britain's Market Bid

ROME (AP) — At the first summit meeting of European Common Market leaders in six years, President Charles de Gaulle of France was pressed Monday to permit speedy negotiations for Britain's entry into the six-nation community.

But he appeared to have already won his point on keeping European political unity a distant hope.

The six heads of government sat together in the baroque splendor of Rome's city hall — where the Common Market's Treaty of Rome was signed on March 25, 1957—to celebrate a decade of spectacular economic growth.

The pressure on De Gaulle to let Britain in on this progress came in a dramatic keystone speech by President Giuseppe Saragat of Italy, and also in a maneuver spearheaded by West Germany to let Britain attend a forthcoming meeting of market foreign ministers.

With De Gaulle seated directly in front of him in a row set aside for heads of government, Saragat said in a 30-minute speech that he hoped negotiations for British entry "can begin soon."

At the same time, informants disclosed that four of the six foreign ministers here had decided not to press for any political collaboration beyond a De Gaulle-favored arrangement for periodic meetings of the ministers on foreign policy matters.

Saragat said in his speech that after a decade of development that "surpassed the most optimistic predictions," the community of France, Italy, West Germany, Belgium, the Netherland and Luxembourg

LISBON — Edward Wilhelm of Salem R. D. 3 and Harold D. Reed of Brandon Dr., Wellsville, will take seats as new members of the Columbiana County Regional Planning Commission Thursday night at the Courthouse.

County commissioners appointed them Monday after J. L. Morrissey, RPC director, advised them of the vacancies.

Wilhelm succeeds Charles Hinchliffe of Washingtonville and Reed replaces Mayor William Daugherty of Wellsville.

Costs Aired On Wellsville Road Project

LISBON — Relocation of Route 7 through Wellsville will cost an estimated $8,000,000, Levi (Jack) Kimball of the Ohio Highway Department said here Monday.

The new deputy director of Division 11 at New Philadelphia said Wellsville's share of the cost will be 5 per cent or $400,000. He was at the Courthouse to discuss the costs with John Ursu, Columbiana County Engineer.

Ursu said he presumes the construction costs will be divided 5 per cent each from the state and Wellsville, and the federal government will furnish 90 per cent.

Ursu said Kimball reported if the county puts up $50,000 of the $400,000 and Wellsville puts up $3,000 per year "forever" the state will build and maintain the relocation.

As an alternative, the state would consider building the Route 7 relocation without any help from Wellsville if the county engineer takes over maintenance of state Route 558 — a 13-

Women Are More Durable

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Even after 65, women are still the more durable sex. At that age a woman can look forward to 15.9 more years of life, the average man only to 13 years.

Despite the spread of education, genius itself remains quite rare. It is estimated that only 2 per cent of the world's population has an IQ rating above 148, where the foothills of genius lie.

Wouldn't you like to be able to tell your friends how many pencils can be made from a mature cedar tree? Well, the figure is 300,000.

What caused ancient Rome to fall? Prof. S. C. Gilfillan of the University of Chicago thinks lead poisoning may have been a big factor. The aristocrats, who used lead cooking utensils, had a high death rate and left few children. The poor escaped, he theorizes, because they cooked their food in harmless pottery vessels, which were cheaper.

Quotable notables: "In a way an umpire is like a woman. He makes quick decisions, never reverses them, and doesn't think you're safe when you're out."—Larry Goertz, famed National League baseball umpire.

Don't knock your local U.S. weather forecaster if it rains when he predicts it'll shine. Checkups show that he is right in 87 per cent of his predictions.

The male elk is one of nature's most determined polygamists. He takes pride in the size of his harem and willingly fights any young bachelor challenger who tries to steal his brides away. Some elks collect as many as 60 cows in a season. But if he is defeated in battle his fickle ladies immediately desert him and trot off with the winner.

At least three famous Americans once worked briefly as bootblacks. They were Peter J. McGuire, founder of Labor Day, magnate Spyros Skouras, and President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Folklore: A girl who stands under a Christmas mistletoe and is kissed seven times in one day will marry within a year. If you develop a mole on your arm in childhood, you will spend your life on a farm. You'll have bad luck if you step over a snake, drop a comb, or laugh before breakfast. If coffee bubbles in a cup float toward you, you'll soon get money; away from you, you'll lose money.

Holiday Sees Start Of More Parks, Pools

morial Pool opened today, with hours from 1 to 9 p.m. The hours will be 4 to 9 p.m. on school days and 1 to 9 p.m. the remainder of the summer.

Two Hancock County recreation areas will open today, but a third — Kennedy Park at Kenilworth—will remain closed pending final agreement on a leasing program.

Nat T. Holbrook, manager of Tomlinson Run State Park, said picnicking was opened in April and the boat docks around the lake were placed in operation Saturday at 12:30 p.m.

The swimming pool was to open today at 12:30 p. m. and remain in use until 8, the hours for the summer schedule.

The pool and entire park will be open daily, with the park hours from daylight until 10 p.m.

Holbrook said a speed limit of 30 miles an hour will be in effect, with periodic checks of cars to be made.

Motorcycles will be confined to park roads and parking lots only, he pointed out. "They will not be permitted on trails or lawns," he added.

Manager Robert Hand said Rock Springs Park at Chester opened Saturday, with groups from Wellsville and Toronto.

The park will be open today and then on weekends and holidays throughout the summer. The park also will be open on certain picnic days when groups wish to use the facility, Hand explained.

HAMMOND PARK in Wellsville opened today for its annual season after the addition of some $30,000 in improvements.

The 25-acre park has several playgrounds and facilities for picnics.

Included in the recent improvements are new tables and the addition of running water to the two shelter houses.

Hours of the park are 8 a.m. to 10 p. m. daily.

The facility is operated by the Hammond Park Commission. Chairman of the group is Mrs. Helen Welch. Members include Robert Lewis, Fred Huston, Wayne Rose, Pete Mase, Mrs. Melvin Boggs and Phil DeSenze.

Applications are available to special groups, such as Scouts, for overnight use of the park.

TWO LISBON collegians and two high school girls will be in charge this summer at Sadie P. Van Fossan Memorial Swimming pool in Lisbon, which will open June 7 at 1 p. m.

Don McClintock, chairman of the pool commission, said the pool manager will be Michael Monda, 18, who is completing his freshman year at Youngstown University. He is a member of the YU swimming team and a qualified life guard.

Jodine Pilmer, a sophomore at Westminster College, will return as lifeguard for the second year.

Marcia Kuhns, a sophomore at David Anderson High School, will be chief basket girl and also fill in as lifeguard. Debbie Pilmer, a junior, will be the other basket attendant.

Chris Kessler will manage the concession stand again. Dave Halverstadt, a student at the Kent State Academic Center in Salem, has been working several days getting the filter house ready. The DAHS Key Club painted the pool Saturday.

Swimming classes will be offered youngsters each week day morning. The pool will be open for public use afternoons and evenings daily through Labor Day.

Miss Van Fossan, principal at DAHS for many years, was killed in an automobile accident here in 1953. Her will left a sum of money as the nucleus for a community pool. Lisbon voters approved a bond issue to make her wish a reality.

Waterford To Close For Next Two Days

Waterford Park, near Newell, closes out its spring meeting today with a Memorial Day doubleheader of 18 races, 11 in the afternoon and seven in the evening.

The track will be closed Wednesday and Thursday, with the summer meeting opening Friday night.

Crews Snare Loose Barge

A runaway barge was retrieved late Monday night when it came loose from its mooring at the Dravo Co. dredge located on the Ohio River near the Broadway wharf.

City Police reported they first received word of the barge as it neared the Newell Bridge on its way downstream about 6:40 p.m. Hancock County Sheriff's deputies reported several calls to their office about the same time.

Deputies notified officials at the Iron City Sand & Gravel Co. of Arroyo, who promised to intercept the barge with one of their three tugs should it reach that area south of Newell.

East Liverpool police reported, however, Dravo dispatched a towboat to retrieve the barge and return it to the dredge.

The operation was completed by 10 p.m. No one was reported on board when the barge began floating downstream. It was not determined whether it was loaded with sand.

These Are Not Moral Matters

Those of us who still retain the inclination to launch moral judgments on international complications may be in for another cold shower of disenchantment in the Middle East.

A moral judgment against the Soviet Union for proposing a quid pro quo deal involving Southeast Asia and the Middle East would be as out of place as a quotation from Horatio Alger in an emergency meeting of the National Security Council.

These are not moral matters.

International relations are not moral matters—never have been.

A generation ago, the United States learned to its chagrin that morality was not going to enter postwar negotiations for winding up World War I.

Americans used to worry in those days because our foreign diplomats always got the worst of it when they tangled with hard-bitten pragmatists of the Old World. We lost confidence in them.

We shrank back from foreign entanglements, just as George Washington said we should. We huddled in a shell of isolationism and were still there when the Japanese blasted Pearl Harbor.

In literal truth, we never were as isolationist as we said we were. But in our disenchantment we were in no mood for intervention.

That was to change after World War II. The United States, we were told, was now the guardian, protector and preceptor of Western civilization. Our government came on strong with moral judgments and "peacekeeping" organizations to protect the dignity of man and save human freedom.

Under John Foster Dulles, strong moral judgments again were commonplace. And it is not happenstance that just about the same time Americans wondered anew if their diplomats were a match for their hard-bitten counterparts in foreign chancellories. It didn't seem to be an even match.

It always turned out that while U.S. diplomats were preoccupied with what was right, the other fellows were preoccupied with what would work.

This is the possibility concerning events in the Middle East and Far East.

While the United States was doing what was right, Nasser, Ho Chi Minh, Mao Tse-tung, Alexei Kosygin and conscienceless fellows like that may have been doing what was possible.

They may have been egging on the Arabs against Israel while Uncle Sam was over a barrel in Vietnam. Out of this might come a proposition for a quid pro quo deal that would shatter confidence anew in U.S. intevention-ism.

The United States might have to buy off an assailant.

Pragmatism was originally an all-American philosophy teaching that only the consequences of belief matter, not the belief itself. Foreign politicians learn it at their mothers' knees.

Memorial Day

Memorial Day 1967 is a sad occasion — sadder than usual.

Even in peace, the day set aside to honor our war dead for their sacrifice is a time for sober reflection; but in war the somberness deepens.

With battle deaths mounting daily in Vietnam ard the threat of other fighting hanging low over the horizon, mourning can only increase.

When there is no blood being shed, Memorial Day often seems to be another fun holiday; but the stark reality that American men are being slain every day emphasizes the black border around May 30, 1967.

Time is truly a great healer. Each generation tends to forget the effort of the generation before. But when graves are fresh, they cannot be ignored.

Whether the cause be just or unjust, whether the battle was lost or won, matters not when measuring the size of the gift of a life for one's country.

A grateful nation will reflect more than usual this Memorial Day and be saddened deeply by realization that all the lives lost so far are only a down payment.

Care And Moderation

With today's holiday, tri-state area residents traditionally open the outdoors season with a picnic, a trip to a park, a porch or patio visit with friends, perhaps a dip in some chilly pool or pond.

Recreation and relaxation become by-words for almost everyone who appreciates the greenery, sunshine and balmy breezes of nature, enjoys the leisure earned away from desk and shop.

But the season also brings the hazards inherent in the longer daylight hours, greater travel, the extra recreation time.

Not only are there more highway mishaps, hospital emergency room and doctor office traffic zooms for adults and youngsters who have become unfortunately involved with power mowers, insects, tools, bicycles, fish hooks, metal or glass in grass, swing, sliding board, ball, ankle twisting stones, hot grills, warm potato salad, cold hotdogs, high steps, low limbs and other accountrements of the outdoors.

As summer approaches, perhaps the by-words of recreation and relaxation should be joined by two more — care and moderation.

Letter From Max

By Martin Miller

Dear Truman Twill:

You and everyone else who has ever been a patient in a hospital, nursing home, or even sick in bed at home, are familiar with the "Battle of the Bedside Stand."

The territory on which the battle rages is about 18 inches by 16 inches, which comprises the top of the bedside stand.

This tiny piece of real estate contains treasures of value beyond measure, such as drinking water pitchers, books, tissue boxes, letters, get-well cards, pens, pencils, cigarettes, matches, nail files;

Talcum powder, rubbing alcohol, skin lotion, little jars of unguents with mystic medicinal properties, shaving cream fizz cans, hair tonics; newspaper clippings, boxes for false teeth, face powder compacts, lipstick, rouge, mirrors, ash trays, candy boxes, radios, Lifesaver mints and thousands of other necessities of life.

Obviously it is difficult to keep all of these things arranged in an orderly fashion on a space 18 inches long and 16 inches wide.

The genial cleaning lady, representing the Establishment, says:

"This stand looks like the city dump. I have to dust here and we'll have to get rid of half this junk. If the supervisor saw this, she'd give me what-for for not doing my job."

The patient yells:

"Don't call that stuff junk, and I just got everything fixed so I know where it is and can reach it."

"I'm sorry," says the genial cleaning lady, "but I'll just straighten these things out a little so I can dust, then it will look a lot neater."

So the genial cleaning lady goes about her job of fulfilling her responsibilities of shifting this item from here to there and that item from there to here, making one pile of items higher and higher and another pile lower and lower.

All the while, she manages to dust the surface, thanks to ledgerdemain acquired from years of practice.

When she is done she stands back to observe the results of her work and says, "There now, doesn't that look better?"

The patient, who has been muttering mild protestations all the while, grudgingly admits, "Yes, I guess it does." The patient puts such a high value on the truth that he uses it sparingly.

After the genial cleaning lady has departed, the grouchy patient exhausts himself and puts a strain on his stitches by reaching over to the top of the bedside stand and trying to put everything back in place the way it was before it was made to look so neat.

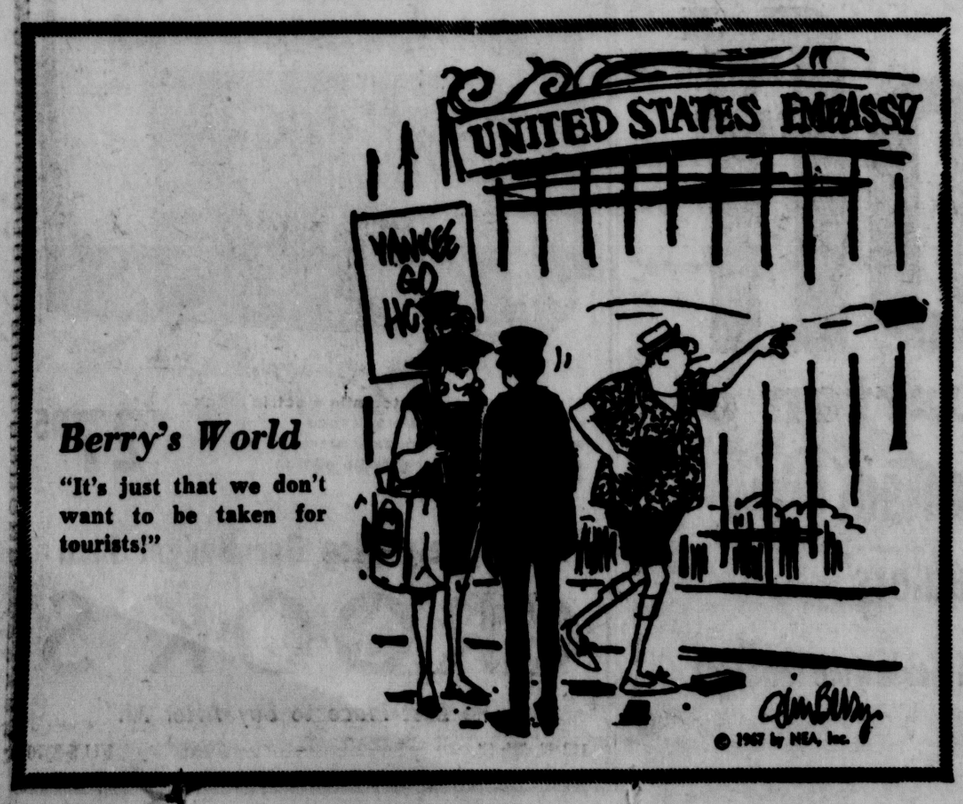

I'll tell you, Twill, everything in life is a struggle.

Faithfull yours,
MAX

The Intellectual Vote

By Art Buchwald

It has been widely reported that President Johnson is very concerned about his inability to get through to many of the country's intellectuals.

Since the President wants to be loved by all the people, he has been asking members of his immediate administration family what he can do to get the intellectuals on his side. He even had a luncheon last week for 16 of his own House intellectuals to discuss the problem.

Art Buchwald

The luncheon was, of course, off the record, so an outsider can only use his own imagination as to what went on.

"Now gentlemen, Ah called you all together today to break bread with me and discuss a very pressing problem. How can we get the blankety-blank intellectuals in this country to see mah side of things?

"Well, Mr. President, I think it's more a question of image than anything else. May I speak frankly?"

"Not too frankly, son."

"INTELLECTUALS JUST don't believe anyone from Texas can communicate with them. They look down on you as a country boy who is more at home driving around his ranch at 90 miles an hour than he is reading the collected poems of T. S. Elliot."

"It was 85 miles an hour, and you know it."

"That isn't the point, Mr. President. The point is we've got to make you into an intellectual so that the intellectuals will consider you one of them."

"That's a hot one. How do you propose to do that?

"Well, I thought we might get Jim Bishop or William S. White to reveal what you like to read at night before you go to sleep."

"What do Ah like to read at night before Ah go to sleep?"

"For a start I thought we might say Plato, St. Thomas Aquinas, Shakespeare, Tolstoy, Kafka, Camus and the poems of Allen Ginsbert."

"They'll never believe it," the President said. "Mah daddy said you can fool some of the intellectuals all of the time and all of the intellectuals some of the time, but you can't fool all of the intellectuals all of the time."

"Well, what about this, Mr. President? Suppose we announce that as a hobby you've taken up writing poetry. We could release a poem every so often that you wrote in your spare time."

"It's not a bad idea, but who are we going to get to write the poems?"

"How about Robert Lowell?"

"Forget it. What other bright ideas do you people have?"

"I WAS THINKING, Mr. President, that you might invite Leonard Bernstein instead of Martha Raye down for your next party. The intellectuals think a lot of Leonard Bernstein."

"Wal, Ah think a lot of Martha Raye. And besides, Leonard Bernstein can't sing 'Hello Dolly.' "

"You probably will think this is a little far out, Mr. President, but have you ever thought of growing a beard? Intellectuals trust anybody who has a beard."

"Lady Bird would never hear of it. And besides, Ah might antagonize the hawk vote."

"Sir, perhaps you could start buying up paintings by Jackson Pollack, Paul Klee and Andy Warhol."

"Why, that's the ugliest thing you've suggested so far."

"Mr. President, I think it's a mistake to try to woo the intellectuals. I believe you should just be yourself. After all, anyone can be an intellectual, but how many people can be President of the United States?"

"Now you're talking, Marvin. Have another helping of barbecued ribs."

What Would Orators Say?

By Truman Twill

They lined us up by grades at the far end of Main St. on Memorial Day morning, gave each of us a little American flag to hold over our right shoulder on a little flagstick and marched us uptown to the Court House park for the oratory.

Or was it "downtown"? In each town it may be different. Uptown and downtown. In some towns it's both ways, depending on which side of town you live.

The motif was white. The girls wore white dresses. The boys wore white blouses and shirts. It was better if you had white shoes. But stockings were black. White stockings, for some reason, did not come until later.

We stood in the park for the speeches, which were incomprehensible but stirring.

The orators were citizens of note — judges, legislators, administrators and prophets from neighboring communities. It was not what they said that mattered but the fact they were standing there on our bandstand saying it in sonorous tones.

It was like a Sunday sermon in the open air, with green leaves overhead, sparrows chirping and a larger audience than any minister could command. Plus the town band.

Up front, in seats of honor, were the Civil War veterans. Behind them were veterans of the Spanish-American War, which was not at that time a highly regarded war. But a veteran was a veteran. American flags decorated the graves of one and all in their final resting places.

When the oratory was over, the band tooted us up the hill to the cemetery, for the closing details of the Memorial Day rites. We kids used to read tombstone inscriptions, before dispersing for the rest of the holiday.

They were all there — Revolutionary War, War of 1812, Civil War, Spanish-American War. We respected them all and were careful not to step on their graves, also to keep our voices hushed and respectful.

The cemetery was beautiful. You felt sad about graves that had not been decorated and wondered if there had been no survivors, or whether no one cared. Some of us never knew Decoration Day had any other name until years later. That was all it meant — decoration as a sign of respect.

Memorial Day has changed. Everything has changed. No one calls it Decoration Day — at least not in this locality.

Cemeteries now are full of war veterans. Three more wars have swelled the totals.

The Civil War veterans are all there now and nearly all the Spanish-American veterans. World War I veterans are being added faster and faster.

And there are the fresh graves of a war in a place no one ever heard of until a few years ago.

It makes you wonder what orators would say from the bandstand in the Court House park if they still had an audience.

Past, Present

More than 10,000 years ago, hunters followed game out of the dying grasslands of northeast Africa and made their camps on the marshy banks of the Nile. Out of that ancient meeting of man and river grew one of the earth's first great civilizations.

The Egyptian people developed as a race from the mingling of the Nile's Paleolithic hunters with nomadic Libyans, Nubians and southwest Asians, the National Geographic Society points out.

Modern Egypt, the United Arab Republic, has one of the fastest growing populations on earth. The population has risen to 30,054,000, and a million new babies arrive each year.

Geographically, the Land of the Pharaohs ties Asia and Africa together at the southeast end of the Mediterranean Sea. Again embroiled in a Middle East crisis, Egypt has from earliest times exerted its influence on Bible lands.

Two Disputes

By David Lawrence

Another Critical Situation

The world has gone through many a critical situation that looked like war but did not turn out that way.

Outwardly there are signs of belligerency, but the story behind the scenes currently reflects an effort to achieve a face-saving formula.

Nasser of Egypt had professed an interest only in getting rid of the United Nations peace-keeping force on his border.

U Thant, secretary-general of the United Nations, assumed this demand had to be granted at once and complied.

Unfortunately, he failed to take the matter up first with the Security Council. European diplomats are saying he really didn't know the background of the dispute, which began in 1956, and fumbled the ball.

The circumstance that causes most anxiety is the Egyptian threat to cut off Israel's only port of entry from the Red Sea.

Nasser warned that Israeli ships wouldn't be allowed to pass through the Gulf of Aqaba, but he did not actually threaten use of force against vessels of other nations seeking to land cargoes in Israel.

IT IS REPORTED that Egyptians are mining the straits between the gulf and the sea. Out of such a developing crisis, miscalculations can be made. Israel could decide to defy the blockade.

The western powers have been trying to work out a settlement that would remove tension.

Great Britain, France and the United States have been eager to help in any way to keep the crisis from enlarging.

The Soviet Union has indicated a desire to avoid a war but nevertheless has come out openly in full support of Egypt's point of view. This has not discouraged London, Paris and Washington from keeping up their efforts to negotiate a settlement. Nor do these activities prevent the United Nations from entering the controversy and setting up some peace-making mechanism.

Outbursts of antagonism in the Middle East are not surprising. The area has been relatively quiet for about 10 years, but rivalries are deep-seated.

So far as the Soviet government is concerned, it probably welcomes Nasser's mischief-making. It is suspected the Soviets are hoping the United States will de-escalate the Vietnam War because of fear it might become entangled in a military or naval operation in the Middle East, too.

Russia, at the same time, is afraid of an enlarged war in Southeast Asia, because this would require increasing aid to North Vietnam, which would be costly for the Soviet economy.

Meanwhile, in the Congress of the United States, Republican leadership has spoken out emphatically against the administration's proposals to "build bridges" with the Communist countries of Europe.

REPUBLICANS ARE insisting that nothing by way of trade concessions be granted, at least until the war crises are over and Russia stops sending weapons and military supplies to North Vietnam. Sen. Everett Dirksen of Illinois, Republican leader, said:

"As long as this bloody business (Vietnam) is going on, we must give no comfort to the Soviet Union and any associated with it."

Rep. Gerald Ford of Michigan, Republican leader of the House, declared:

"Surely it is not time to woo the Communist world with trade concessions. Let the Soviet Union and Eastern European Communist governments first convince us that they truly seek peace in Vietnam, the Middle East and elsewhere."

There is a lot for diplomats to talk about as they strive to find some way out of the Vietnam and Middle East dilemmas.

But, surprisingly, while there is plenty of conversation at U.N. headquarters in New York, there is as yet no evidence that the world organization is really going to take the whole thing out of the hands of the secretary-general and set forth some basic principles of procedures for the settlement of both the Vietnam and the Middle East disputes.

These Are Not Moral Matters

Those of us who still retain the inclination to launch moral judgments on international complications may be in for another cold shower of disenchantment in the Middle East.

A moral judgment against the Soviet Union for proposing a quid pro quo deal involving Southeast Asia and the Middle East would be as out of place as a quotation from Horatio Alger in an emergency meeting of the National Security Council.

These are not moral matters.

International relations are not moral matters—never have been.

A generation ago, the United States learned to its chagrin that morality was not going to enter postwar negotiations for winding up World War I.

Americans used to worry in those days because our foreign diplomats always got the worst of it when they tangled with hard-bitten pragmatists of the Old World. We lost confidence in them.

We shrank back from foreign entanglements, just as George Washington said we should. We huddled in a shell of isolationism and were still there when the Japanese blasted Pearl Harbor.

In literal truth, we never were as isolationist as we said we were. But in our disenchantment we were in no mood for intervention.

That was to change after World War II. The United States, we were told, was now the guardian, protector and preceptor of Western civilization. Our government came on strong with moral judgments and "peacekeeping" organizations to protect the dignity of man and save human freedom.

Under John Foster Dulles, strong moral judgments again were commonplace. And it is not happenstance that just about the same time Americans wondered anew if their diplomats were a match for their hard-bitten counterparts in foreign chancellories. It didn't seem to be an even match.

It always turned out that while U.S. diplomats were preoccupied with what was right, the other fellows were preoccupied with what would work.

This is the possibility concerning events in the Middle East and Far East.

While the United States was doing what was right, Nasser, Ho Chi Minh, Mao Tse-tung, Alexei Kosygin and conscienceless fellows like that may have been doing what was possible.

They may have been egging on the Arabs against Israel while Uncle Sam was over a barrel in Vietnam. Out of this might come a proposition for a quid pro quo deal that would shatter confidence anew in U.S. inteventionism.

The United States might have to buy off an assailant.

Pragmatism was originally an all-American philosophy teaching that only the consequences of belief matter, not the belief itself. Foreign politicians learn it at their mothers' knees.

Memorial Day

Memorial Day 1967 is a sad occasion — sadder than usual.

Even in peace, the day set aside to honor our war dead for their sacrifice is a time for sober reflection; but in war the somberness deepens.

With battle deaths mounting daily in Vietnam and the threat of other fighting hanging low over the horizon, mourning can only increase.

When there is no blood being shed, Memorial Day often seems to be another fun holiday; but the stark reality that American men are being slain every day emphasizes the black border around May 30, 1967.

Time is truly a great healer. Each generation tends to forget the effort of the generation before. But when graves are fresh, they cannot be ignored.

Whether the cause be just or unjust, whether the battle was lost or won, matters not when measuring the size of the gift of a life for one's country.

A grateful nation will reflect more than usual this Memorial Day and be saddened deeply by realization that all the lives lost so far are only a down payment.

Care And Moderation

With today's holiday, tri-state area residents traditionally open the outdoors season with a picnic, a trip to a park, a porch or patio visit with friends, perhaps a dip in some chilly pool or pond.

Recreation and relaxation become by-words for almost everyone who appreciates the greenery, sunshine and balmy breezes of nature, enjoys the leisure earned away from desk and shop.

But the season also brings the hazards inherent in the longer daylight hours, greater travel, the extra recreation time.

Not only are there more highway mishaps, hospital emergency room and doctor office traffic zooms for adults and youngsters who have become unfortunately involved with power mowers, insects, tools, bicycles, fish hooks, metal or glass in grass, swing, sliding board, ball, ankle twisting stones, hot grills, warm potato salad, cold hotdogs, high steps, low limbs and other accountrements of the outdoors.

As summer approaches, perhaps the by-words of recreation and relaxation should be joined by two more — care and moderation.

Letter From Max

Dear Truman Twill:

You and everyone else who has ever been a patient in a hospital, nursing home, or even sick in bed at home, are familiar with the "Battle of the Bedside Stand."

The territory on which the battle rages is about 18 inches by 16 inches, which comprises the top of the bedside stand.

This tiny piece of real estate contains treasures of value beyond measure, such as drinking water pitchers, books, tissue boxes, letters, get-well cards, pens, pencils, cigarettes, matches, nail files;

Talcum powder, rubbing alcohol, skin lotion, little jars of unguents with mystic medicinal properties, shaving cream fizz cans, hair tonics; newspaper clippings, boxes for false teeth, face powder compacts, lipstick, rouge, mirrors, ash trays, candy boxes, radios, Lifesaver mints and thousands of other necessities of life.

Obviously it is difficult to keep all of these things arranged in an orderly fashion on a space 18 inches long and 16 inches wide.

The genial cleaning lady, representing the Establishment, says:

"This stand looks like the city dump. I have to dust here and we'll have to get rid of half this junk. If the supervisor saw this, she'd give me what-for for not doing my job."

The patient yells:

"Don't call that stuff junk, and I just got everything fixed so I know where it is and can reach it."

"I'm sorry," says the genial cleaning lady, "but I'll just straighten these things out a little so I can dust, then it will look a lot neater."

So the genial cleaning lady goes about her job of fulfilling her responsibilities of shifting this item from here to there and that item from there to here, making one pile of items higher and higher and another pile lower and lower.

All the while, she manages to dust the surface, thanks to ledgerdemain acquired from years of practice.

When she is done she stands back to observe the results of her work and says, "There now, doesn't that look better?"

The patient, who has been muttering mild protestations all the while, grudgingly admits, "Yes, I guess it does." The patient puts such a high value on the truth that he uses it sparingly.

After the genial cleaning lady has departed, the grouchy patient exhausts himself and puts a strain on his stitches by reaching over to the top of the bedside stand and trying to put everything back in place the way it was before it was made to look so neat.

I'll tell you, Twill, everything in life is a struggle.

Faithfull yours,
MAX

How Can I

By Anne Ashley

Q.—How can I remedy a loose chair rung that doesn't fig snugly in its hole?

A.—Glue is not the answer. Here's a way to make it fit tighter: Saw a slit in the end of the rung, not quite so deep as the tenon part of the rung. Tapping slightly, drive a slender wood wedge into the cut — not too far or you'll split the rung. Cut off the wedge so it extends slightly beyond the end of the tenon. Apply glue to the tenon, fit it into the hole, and clamp until dry.

Q.—How can I prevent fine laces from tearing when washing them?

A.—By washing in a bottle of soapsuds, shaking them well inside this bottle. If they are to be starched, use a solution of sugar and water. To whiten lace, wash in sour milk.

Q.—How can I preserve leftoverpaint in the can so as to prevent that familiar scum from forming on its top?

A.—By pouring a little turpentine or mineral spirits on the top of the paint. When you are ready to paint again, stir in the turpentine or spirits. Or, if you are worried about the paints drying out, pour melted paraffin over the surface before you put it away.

Q.—How can I renovate and brighten black suede shoes?

A.—Try sponging them with black coffee.

TEHRAN (AP) — The men bought drinks for the 50 passengers in the train's dining car, then went around rifling pockets after the passengers slid sleepily to the floor. A waiter who refused a drink remained conscious and contacted Iranian police, who arrested the gang at the next station.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

DEAR FOLKS: Many of you have written that you've broken the plastic molding in your refrigerator (or what you and I would call the front edge of the bottom shelf of the box) by dropping jars, etc., on it.

Since it's quite expensive to have this molding replaced, let me give you a temporary solution I have used on my own refrig now for eight months, and it's still holding up beautifully.

I bought some extra heavy plastic paper (that's the adhesive-backed plastic stuff that isn't paper at all) and placed a strip of it along the bottom of my refrigerator. (If you can't find the heavy type, use two thicknesses of the regular.)

But there are a few important tips to remember before applying this paper:

First, it won't stick to a cold refrigerator. So do your repair job when you defrost real good some day and the door has been opened a long time leaving the molding warm.

Second, run a terry cloth towel under hot water and as soon as the plastic is applied, rub the hot towel over it. This will let the sticky stuff on the back soften and adhere to the molding better. This is an absolute necessity!

Last, and read this carefully, the refrig molding must be scrupulously clean. It usually has a build-up of greasy stuff from dropped foods, so scrub it well before you apply the paper.

Anytime you have a hole or a leaky door in any part of your refrigerator, it isn't airtight and can't work as efficiently. This is why the manufacturers put good gaskets on the doors.

So if you've got holes or cracks in your refrig, let's get them fixed. I used plain white with little gold stars on mine and it looks lovely.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: While shopping for a bride's gift in a trading stamp store, I thought of a real practical idea.

Why not have a "Trading Stamp Book Shower"? Everyone could bring stamps to the shower instead of gifts. Then the bride could choose what she really wanted and needed.

R.M.E.

You are as right as rain. It would save embarrassment to the giver of a coffee pot when four others had been opened at the same shower. Also the bride won't have to exchange umpteen can openers.

HELOISE.

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

DEAR HELOISE: What makes cookies rise so nicely in the oven and then fall flat before they are completely baked?

MRS. CLARA LONG.

Anybody know? We sure would love to hear from you. Just drop us a line in care of this paper.

!RHELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: If your little ones have pull-over pajama tops that are a struggle to get on, do what I did:

Cut the pajama top right up the middle in front and sew facings on both sides. Make button holes and sew on buttons.

You may use any print or solid color cotton material and any color buttons to make them look attractive.

This kinda gives the pajamas mom's touch and the little ones don't have to struggle to get in them.

LAURA.

DEAR HELOISE: To keep the birds out, spread a big piece of that wonderful nylon net over your strawberry (or any berry) bed in your garden. The sun, rain and water comes through.

It's inexpensive, does the trick and will last many seasons.

Just weight the edges down with heavy rocks.

MARY HODGE.

DEAR HELOISE: If you have just a few short stemmed rosebuds or a few short stemmed flowers from your garden, they will look very attractive in a clear crystal vase if a piece of plastic wrap is crumpled and placed in the water.

Your flowers will appear to be in crushed ice and the plastic holds them in place.

ROSALIE.

Q.—Is there anything I can do about sets that persist in falling out of some of my pieces of costume jewelry?

A.—Reset them with clear fingernail polish. Brush the colorless stuff into the setting, then press in your stone, and allow to dry thoroughly. If any of the "stickum" oozes out around or over the stone, clean up the overflow with a piece of cleaning tissue just barely dampened with nailpolish remover.

Q.—What is the best way to caramelize sugar?

A.—In a dry skillet in the oven. In this way, it heats from the bottom and top at the same time, carmelizing quickly and smoothly.

Q.—How can I restore the original abrasiveness to an oilstone which has become clogged with dirt, oil, and old metal particles from much sharpening of my tools?

A.—Fill a shallow pan with water and boil the stone in this until the old dirt is loosened up. If necessary, scrub with a stiff fiber brush, and repeat the process several times until the stone is clean.

Q.—What can I do to renovate old furniture that is dirty and discolored?

A.—Try cleaning it with this solution: Equal quantities of vinegar, sweet oil, and turpentine, well shaken together. Apply it vigorously on the furniture with a soft cloth.

Q.—How can I remove blood stains from silk?

A.—Moisten a few inches of white sewing silk on the tongue, roll this into a ball, and then rub this over the stain gently.

Q.—How can I prevent mold and mildew in dresser drawers, clothes and linen closets, and other storage places?

A.—By keeping a few pieces of chalk in these places. This is good to use wherever shoes and leather goods are kept.

Ursu said he could not accept this proposal. He did offer to take Route 558 if the state will take over construction and maintenance of St. Clair Ave. Extension. This one-mile project is being planned by the county engineering department at an appproximate cost of $250,000.

Ursu said he discussed with Kimball state participation in putting a new deck on a truss bridge on Main St., Salineville. The project would be the same as a Salineville bridge job completed last summer. The county paid one-fourth the cost and the state the balance.

The county engineer said Kimball advised him to make application.

now faced the problem of an expanded membership.

In a news conference May 17 De Gaulle made it clear he was still opposed to British membership at the present time. He vetoed a British bid to join in 1963.

Saragat also seemed to be telling De Gaulle not to fear the prospect of political unity. The French leader is opposed to any supranational political union.

"We are aware that there exists no incompatibility between European ideals and national ideals," Saragat said, "just as there can be none between liberty and individual rights and duties of the individual to serve his own country."

Members of the French delegation seemed embarrassed and dismayed by Saragat's speech. But informants said De Gaulle had been shown a text of the speech in advance, as had other government leaders.

For all its solemnity, the meeting was of secondary importance. The summit moves from ceremony to substance in its second and last day Tuesday with a scheduled three - hour meeting of the leaders at the Italian foreign ministry.

Fireman Lewis Hood, 27, of 2034 Ohio Ave., was injured when he cut his wrist on a piece of broken glass as he smashed a window to let the smoke escape from the second story.

Chief VanDyne summoned Patrolman Karl Samples who took Hood to City Hospital, where the wound required two stitches. He was later released and returned to the fire station.

Salvage covers were used to protect furniture in the downstairs portion of the home.

Two pumpers, from Central and Northside stations, used three lines of hose to contain the flames.

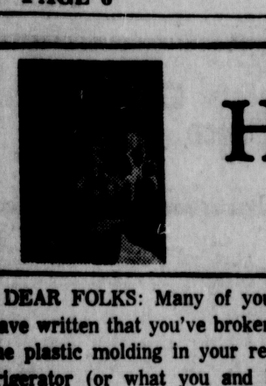

Firemen were on the scene about one hour.

now faced the problem of an expanded membership.

In a news conference May 17 De Gaulle made it clear he was still opposed to British membership at the present time. He vetoed a British bid to join in 1963.

Saragat also seemed to be telling De Gaulle not to fear the prospect of political unity. The French leader is opposed to any supranational political union.

"We are aware that there exists no incompatibility between European ideals and national ideals," Saragat said, "just as there can be none between liberty and individual rights and duties of the individual to serve his own country."

Members of the French delegation seemed embarrassed and dismayed by Saragat's speech. But informants said De Gaulle had been shown a text of the speech in advance, as had other government leaders.

For all its solemnity, the meeting was of secondary importance. The summit moves from ceremony to substance in its second and last day Tuesday with a scheduled three - hour meeting of the leaders at the Italian foreign ministry.

Torches Slated To Free Barge In Gate Of Dam

CINCINNATI (AP) — Underwater torches will be used to cut loose the submerged barge wedged in Gate 5 of the Markland, Ind. Dam, lockmaster Donald Moseley said Monday.

Scuba divers Monday were determining how to cut the remaining sunken barge to free it from the gate so that the dam, 61 miles downstream from here, can properly control the flow of the Ohio River.

The river has been falling steadily since seven barges broke away from their moorings May 16 and lodged in the dam's gates. They have prevented the dam from maintaining the proper pool stage above the dam and upstream for 95 miles to the Anthony Meldahl Dam at Chilo, Ohio.

In the Civil War, the first Union victory of any consequence was the Battle of Philippi, which also marked the war's entry into what is now the state of West Virginia.

Saxbe To Give Ruling In Mid-June

Give-Away Games Seen As Headed For Oblivion

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Service station and other give-away games appear headed for oblivion in Ohio.

Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe's office said Monday he plans to issue a ruling about mid-June branding the games as lotteries banned by Ohio's Constitution.

"I still feel the games are illegal and have been convinced to the point that we will make an all-out effort to end them," Saxbe has said.

An attorney general's opinion, carrying the force of law in lieu of a court decision, would clear the way for oil companies and others using the give-aways to drop them or face suit in Ohio Supreme Court, according to Saxbe aides.

Major companies have indicated they would go along with the promised ruling on the games in which customers win cash prizes by matching numbers on stubs of tickets handed out by attendants.

Complaints by some service station operators affected by the competitive promotions precipitated Saxbe's look into give - aways.

Liquor Director Donald D. Cook also has asked Saxbe for a ruling on legality of similar games used by retailers holding carry-out licenses. And Cincinnati filling stations announced they were dropping the games in the light of Saxbe's action.

The Greater Akron Gasoline Dealers Association filed suit there to enjoin the games. The suit asked $400,000 damages from Standard Oil Co. of Ohio.

Operators of leased stations complained that they had to buy the games while company - operated stations were supplied with tickets at a competitive advantage.

Aides of the attorney general said extent of the promised ruling has yet to be determined but they expressed belief it would have general effect.

A problem with games users under an adverse opinion, it was explained, would be cancellation or expiration of contracts for printed and broadcast promotion of the games.

Rhodes Seeking More Facts On Extradition Bid

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes asked Louisiana officials for more information Monday on their second extradition request for the return of Gordon Novel to New Orleans to face a burglary charge.

Novel 29-year - old former French Quarter lounge owner, also has been termed an important witness in Dist. Atty. James Garrison's investigation into the assassination of President Kennedy.

In a letter to Louisiana Gov. John J. Mckkeithen, Governor Rhodes asked for clarification on weather an assistant district attorney is empowered in Louisiana to sign an information charging Novel with conspiracy to commit a burglary.

Louisiana's first attempt to extradite Novel failed when Ohio officials returned the information as incomplete.

A spokesman for Rhodes said Ohio law requires that the individual who signs an information for extradition must have personal knowledge of the alleged crime.

How Can I

By Anne Ashley

Q.—What can I do when there is too much polish on my furniture?

A.—Mix ¼ cup of vinegar with ½ cup of water, wring a soft cloth out in this mixture, then rub it over the furniture. Dry immediately with another soft cloth.

Q.—How can I remove discolorations in aluminum kitchen vessels, caused by food or water containing iron?

A.—By rubbing briskly with steel wool, then rinsing and drying.

Q.—Can shellac be kept on hand very long?

A.—Not usually. Unlike most paints, shellac should be used only when relatively fresh. Its life can be prolonged to some extent by storing it in glass jars with screw-type lids, rather than in cans. And even this way, shellac which is much more than six months old should be discarded.

Q.—How can I keep the bottom of my iron smooth?

A.—Make a habit of frequently rubbing the iron over a cloth that has been sprinkled with scouring powder. A wad of steel wool may be used to remove accumulated coatings.

Q.—What can I do about shoe polish stains on carpets?

A.—Usually these will yield to carbon tetrachloride, followed by a regular shampooing with soapsuds and a little ammonia.

4th Committee Furthers Plans For Midland Fete

Progress on plans for the 1967 Fourth of July celebration was discussed when the General Committee met Monday noon at the plant management dining room at the Midland Works of the Crucible Steel Co.

Stephen Trbovich, finance chairman, presided. A preliminary discussion was held on this year's budget. John F. Shovlin III, chairman of parade and special events, will present a tentative budget for activities at the next regular meeting June 12 at noon.

Trbovich, in charge of the fund drive solicitation, urged Midland merchants, tavernkeepers and other residents to purchase the $1 donation tickets to help support the local fund drive.

The committee reminded that more than $1,000 will be given away to prize winners in the float contest. This year's theme, suggested by Marty Schuffert, a freshman at Western Beaver High School, is "This is our Country."

The deadline for entering floats is June 26. Entry blanks are available at Chamber of Commerce headquarters at the McGeehan Agency, at the Midland Borough Building or at the Midland News office.

Marching groups, drill teams and decorated bicycles are also invited to enter the parade.

The contract for the 1967 fireworks display was awarded to the Ohio Fireworks Mfg. and Display Co. of Bellaire, Ohio, on the recommendation of Capt. John H. Lutton, chief-plant protection at the Midland Works.

Lutton, chairman of the fireworks committee, said the company not only will present a grand finale, along with other fireworks, but will stage an introductory display also.

Bands already set to march in the parade are from Center Township, Beaver Local, Midland and Western Beaver. The committee expects at least three more to participate.

The Midland Volunteer Fire Department again will hold its annual carnival July 4 and American Legion Post 481 will sponsor a junior legion ball game. Five groups are expected for the drum and bugle corps competition at night, and possibly a touring corps from Miami, Fla.

Converse, 81, Local Union Figure, Dies

CLEVELAND (AP)—Frank P. Converse, general businessmanager of Local 18, International Union of Operating Engineers, died Monday in St. Luke's Hospital. He was 81.

Converse had been hospitalized during a strike by Local 18 that started May 3 and has tied up $800 million in state highway projects.

Converse, born in Chevanse, Ill., organized Local 18 in 1939 when he completed the amalgamation of six local unions of hoisting and portable engineers throughout Ohio into one statewide organization.

He started his career as an operating engineer at an early age and in 1913 became superintendent of a construction company in Cleveland.

Converse was elected business representative of the International Operating Engineers Union in 1927 and was the international representative for Ohio, Michigan and Kentucky in 1931.

Local 18 came under a U.S. Senate committeee investigation following a rebellion of union members in 1958. They charged they were not permitted to vote in the election of their officers and planning board representatives.

The committee sent in investigators but no action was taken at the time.

In 1942, Converse was elected a vice president of the international union.

Converse was hit by shotgun pellets on Nov. 11, 1935, while sitting in his car in Cleveland. Plastic surgery was required to rebuild his face.

The shooting was linked to union troubles.

He was released more than a month later and by 1936 was brought into federal court on a contempt citation.

Aqaba, where Israel's port of Elath is that nation's only shipping outlet to East Africa and Asia, and is the chief entry point for oil imports.

But Israel's focus for the moment was on the United Nations in New York, where the Security Council took up Secretary-General U. Thant's report on a flying trip to Cairo last week. Thant expressed fear that a clash over shipping in the gulf could set off war in the Middle East.

An Israeli army communique in Tel Aviv said the firing along the Gaza Strip began at 12:25 p.m. when machine gun and mortar fire was aimed at workers in a field and at a motorized patrol nearby. The Arab firing ignited blazes in several fields.

The farmers were working two tractors in a field of the village of Nahal Oz, 45 miles southeast of Tel Aviv, the communique added. Israeli soldiers countered with machine guns. One Israeli was reported wounded.

This was the first incident on the Gaza Strip frontier since the U.N. Emergency Force pulled out last week at Naser's demand.

Presumably the men behind the Arab firing were Egyptian irregulars and the strip's Palestine Liberation Army. Egyptian regulars are reported farther back, ready to pounce should Israel attack the strip.

An Israel army spokesman reported an explosive charge was touched off on a dirt road near the Lebanese border. No damage was reported.

Nasser disclosed in Cairo that Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin had sent him a firm message of support saying "the Soviet Union stands with us in this struggle and will not allow countries to interfere until things return to the same status as they were in 1956."

That was the year that France and Britain, in concert with Israel, invaded Egypt after Nasser nationalized the Suez Canal. The United Nations ended this fighting.

Kosygin seemed to be saying that the Soviet Union supports Nasser's blockade of the Gulf of Aqaba. Before the war Nasser barred Israeli ships from the gulf but it was opened to Israel after a U.N. peacekeeping force took up positions at the entrance later in 1956.

The government paper Izvestia in Moscow followed up by saying "Israeli extremists are busy with endless provocations" and rely on support from the United States and the U.S. 6th Fleet.

Izvestia asserted Israel provoked the Arabs and now, facing large forces on its border, is trying to blame the Arabs for the crisis.

Syria's chief of state, Nureddine Atassi, made a flying trip to Moscow and began talks with Kosygin on the crisis.

For the moment, broadcasts from Syria were more belligerent than those out of Egypt.

Syrian Premier Youssef Zayyen told a lawyers' meeting: "If the battle erupts today, the liberated Arab countries are ready to carry out their duties fully. They will stop the flow of oil to imperialism."

Once more he threatened to blow up pipelines and burn oil wells. Nasser, in his news conference Sunday, said he did not think Western oil installations should be destroyed "because they are the Arabs' own property."

Noting that the United States is engaged in Vietnam, Zayyen declared: "No matter how powerful she is, the United States cannot deploy her forces all over the world. And Britain, who has been defeated everywhere, can do nothing more than be a lackey of the United States."

The Syrian official news agency said Foreign Minister Ibrahim Makhos told U.S. Ambassador Hugh Smythe that Syria regards commando raids into Israel as legal.

The raids were a prime cause of the present crisis after Israel threatened to retaliate against Syria.

Makhos, who met Sunday with Smythe, charged the Israelis seized Arab land with U.S. support in creating the State of Israel.

"Why does American generosity toward the Jews not extend to giving them a state in America, New York for instance?" the news agency quoted Makhos as saying. "What would be the reaction if one state in the United States was emptied of its people and another people put in their place? Why does the U.S. government regard attempts by these oustated people to return to their state as aggression or terrorism?"

lands around Duc Pho has been the scene of repeated clashes recently as enemy forces have intensified their pressure southward from the demilitarized zone.

Near the demilitarized zone, the once neutral buffer zone dividing North and South Vietnam, U.S. Marine elements took sharp casualties Monday assaulting a hill.

A correspondent Steve Stibbons reported from Dong Ha that the Leathernecks ran into North Vietnamese machine gunners strongly emplaced in bunkers on the hill about a half-mile south of the demilitarized zone. Casualties in one platoon — usually about 40 men — were said to have been heavy as they attempted to take the hill.

At last reports the high ground had not been taken by the Leathernecks.

The general area is one in which U.S. Marines have fought many bittter battles in recent weeks with tough North Vietnamese army regulars.

The U.S. Command announced that Operation Hickory, the move that took U.S. troops into the demilitarized zone itself May 18, officially was terminated at midnight Sunday.

The command had announed previously that all American troops had pulled out of the zone, but later accounts said some units still were operating there. The last announcement said the Marines had withdrawn "again" from the zone.

Only scattered action was reported elsewhere in the country, but the Communits early Monday hit Hue, a city of 120,000 persons, with mortars and then planted one or more satchel charges in the hotel. The building itself sustained 80 per cent damage, officials said, from the blast and from fire.

The targets hit in Hue included the U.S. Military Assistance Advisory Command compound, but no casualties were reported there.

There were four B52 raids in the country during the day, two of them in Thua Thien Province of which Hue is the capital.

move as a blow to the fortunes of Alexander N. Shelepin, 42, a party secretary and also a member of the party's Politburo or steering committee.

Semichastny was a protege of Shelepin, succeeding him first as boss of the Communist Youth League and then as chairman of the KGB.

Immediately after the 1964 ouster of Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev, Shelepin was one of the most prominent members of the new "collective leadership" in the Kremlin.

There were whispers in Moscow—some persons attributed them to the KGB—that within a year Shelepin would succeed Leonid I. Brezhnev in the top job of party general secretary.

Brezhnev and other leaders seem to have heard the whispers. They began to whittle Shelepin down, taking away his main power base, chairmanship of the Committee for Party and State Control.

By last year Shelepin was reduced to the job of supervising the consumer goods industry for the party—an important but hardly powerful assignment.

move as a blow to the fortunes of Alexander N. Shelepin, 48, a party secretary and also a member of the party's Politburo or steering committee.

Semichastny was a protege of Shelepin, succeeding him first as boss of the Communist Youth League and then as chairman of the KGB.

Immediately after the 1964 ouster of Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev, Shelepin was one of the most prominent members of the new "collective leadership" in the Kremlin.

There were whispers in Moscow—some persons attributed them to the KGB—that within a year Shelepin would succeed Leonid I. Brezhnev in the top job of party general secretary.

Brezhnev and other leaders seem to have heard the whispers. They began to whittle Shelepin down, taking away his main power base, chairmanship of the Committee for Party and State Control.

By last year Shelepin was reduced to the job of supervising the consumer goods industry for the party—an important but hardly powerful assignment.

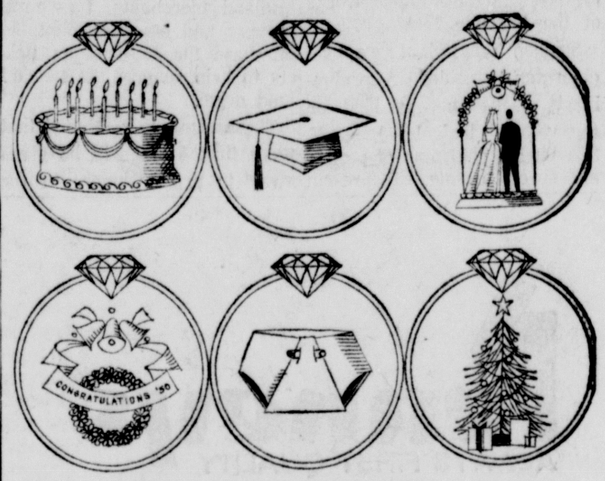

First friction matches in America were manufactured at Thurmont, Md., in 1825.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: I work in a nursing home that has 125 elderly residents. Every morning at breakfast our executive director stands at the microphone and reads — first, the news bulletin, and then your column.

You can't imagine how much everyone looks forward to this treat. When the director says, "And now let's see what Ann Landers has to say," you can hear a pin drop.

I'm sure the folks would be thrilled if you would say a special good morning to them one of these days. I wouldn't expect you to mention the name of the home, but it's in Kansas City and we'll know you mean us. — MRS. W.

-:-

Good Morning, Friends in Kansas City: I'm happy you enjoy my column. And for those of you who can still get into mischief, I hope you are paying attention to my advice.

Come Home, Sport

Dear Ann: My husband is what the neighbors call a wonderful husband and father, and I guess he is — between hunting and fishing trips, stock car races, bowling league and the inevitable Friday night card game with the boys.

He says he's happy. Well, I'd be happy, too, if I were free to come and go as I please, had a lovely place to live, someone to cook my meals and make love to me when I'm in the mood.

My husband would stay home if I asked him to, but who wants a man home if he is there by request?

Don't tell me to join a club or find a hobby. I'm plenty busy with four sons. It's those hours between midnight and 3 a.m. that get to me.

I know he's not cheating, it's just that he'd rather be with the boys than at home — and this is hard to take. Is there a solution? — LONELY.

-:-

Dear Lonely: I get this same letter 50 times every day. Only the signatures are different.

My advice is (1) Don't nag; (2) don't beg for his presence; (3) keep yourself busy and (4) turn on the heat.

You've got an immature kid on your hands, but kids do grow up with the proper guidance and adult behavior to imitate. So, be mature, in spite of his juvenile approach to marriage, and let's hope your husband becomes a man before his sons notice they've passed him.

Woman Upstairs

Dear Ann: My husband and I are a retired couple who have found an ideal apartment. We've lived here two years and love it.

In October a woman (about 50) moved in directly above us. This dilly has a string of male visitors who stay anywhere from an hour to three days. Her telephone rings day and night. She runs the bath water at 3 in the morning. Her radio and TV could wake the dead.

Would it do any good to ask the landlord to throw her out? Or should we look for another place to live? We never will be able to find an apartment as good in this neighborhood and at this price. — SENIOR COUPLE.

Dear Couple: Move. It could be that this dilly entertains only her friends — and she doesn't have an enemy in the world.

You'd have a difficult time proving she is what you think she is. If you are wrong, she could sue you for defamation of character. I say, tain't worth it.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send hem to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Nature Guide Offered For Tomlinson Run

A Nature Guide of Tomlinson Run State Park has been published by the Hancock County Nature Committee, Oliver Johnson, county extension agent, has announced.

According to Johnson, the geological description of the park, presented in a chart, "gives us an idea of what is beneath our feet." Included in the guide is a list and description of the six park trails, a complete map of the park, its climate and various references for a nature program.

"The points in leading a nature group are listed and may be helpful for a more interesting nature field trip," Johnson noted.

He attributed much of the success of the work to W. J. Sumpstine, former Professor of biology at Bethany College. Sumpstine devoted three summers to the study of the plant life and ecology of the park as his special project for a Doctorate Degree, but died before he was able to publish the vast amount of information he had collected.

Sumpstine's records of Tomlinson Run were given to the county nature committee by his wife. His work, called the most complete study ever made of a state park in West Virginia, is the basis for the nature guide. A complete bibliography is included.

The nature guide was prepared for the use of nature leaders, Johnson pointed out. "It is not intended for general distribution and may never be available again." Copies are being sent to leaders of youth groups, school and public libraries.

The Hancock County Nature Committee members are Mrs. Gail Jones, Mrs. James Arehart, Mr. and Mrs. N. T. Holbrook, Miss Kathryn Minesinger, William Murray, Richard Brenneman and E. R. Chandler.

Johnson said copies of the guide may be obtained by phoning the courthouse in New Cumberland or writing the County Extension Office, Box 457, New Cumberland, W. Va., 26047.

James Lowe Reports $29 Election Expense

James E. Lowe, Republican, spent $29.26 in his successful campaign for renomination as Third Ward councilman in the May 2 primaries, it was shown in a sworn statement of expenditures on file with the County Election Board's office.

Meanwhile, James R. Allison, president of the East Palestine Chamber of Commerce, reported it spent $50 in support of street and park levies which were approved at the primary.

June 16 at 4 p.m. is the deadline for the reports. Ohio law requires they must be filed by all candidates, whether or not they were successful, and by committees which supported or opposed any candidate or issue.

Delegation Selected For Pittsburgh Rally

Delegates were named to the June 18-21 convention at Pittsburgh when Midland Barracks 2119 of World War I veterans met Sunday.

Robert Dunn, Louis Provost, John Cunningham, Earl Bole, Albert Pritchett and Cmdr. Leo Payne are the delegates, with Luke Cadman, Burt Burgoyne, Mike DeMarco, Patsy Papa and John Shannon the alternates.

The next regular meeting will be June 25.

Daly To Be New Voice Of America

WASHINGTON (AP) — John Charles Daly, 53, television panel moderator and former network news executive, will become head of the Voice of America, it was learned Monday.

Daly, who now moderates the Sunday night CBS-TV show "What's My Line," will succeed John Chancellor who is resigning to return to National Broadcasting Co. as national affairs news correspondent.

Daly has worked in broadcasting mostly as a newsman since joining the Columbia Broadcasting System in 1937. From then until 1941, he was CBS White House correspondent and special events reporter.

During World War II, he was a CBS correspondent in Europe, Africa and South America.

In 1949 Daly became a news analyst for the American Broadcasting Co. and in 1953 became director of ABC news and special events coverage.

Leonard Marks, director of the U.S. Information Agency, called a news conference for 3 p.m. today for the purpose of announcing "major personnel changes." He gave no indication what moves were planned.

Commissioners, Township Group Sift Road Action

A delegation from Liverpool Township conferred with Columbiana County commissioners at Lisbon Monday relative to a road situation.

Gerald and Alberta J. Hayes and Robert and Kathryn Powell of the Township and Frank Gray and Guy Digman, township trustees, were in the group.

They want the commissioners and County Engineer John Ursu to participate in opening Valley Ave., a dedicated but undeveloped street north of Pennsylvania Ave. in the East End of East Liverpool.

Valley Ave. is about 100 feet east of Dry Run Alley, a narrow road in public use. Ursu said Digman said the trustees have no money to develop Valley, but will be willing to use their equipment to help. Ursu said the south end of the street is inside the city and a Dry Run resident has a garage on land in Valley Ave.

The trustees also asked for county help to prevent flooding and washouts where Dry Run Alley goes over a culvert farther north. Ursu said the county will furnish the pipe if trustees will install it.

County commissioners and Ursu will check both locations next Monday.

Hospital Treats 3 After Accidents

A Calcutta man hurt at work, a city woman injured in a fall at home and a boy hurt in a fall at school were treated Monday at City Hospital.

John McNeil of Calcutta, employed by the Sayre Electric Co., was treated for an eye irritation from a particle in the left eye suffered at work.

Mrs. Nell Heddleston of 636 Fisher Ave. received a sprained right ankle in a fall at home.

George Stack, son of Mrs. Carl Carnes of Jackson St., suffered contusions of the back of the head in a fall at school.

Good Morning, Friends in Kansas City: I'm happy you enjoy my column. And for those of you who can still get into mischief, I hope you are paying attention to my advice.

Come Home, Sport

Dear Ann: My husband is what the neighbors call a wonderful husband and father, and I guess he is — between hunting and fishing trips, stock car races, bowling league and the inevitable Friday night card game with the boys.

He says he's happy. Well, I'd be happy, too, if I were free to come and go as I please, had a lovely place to live, someone to cook my meals and make love to me when I'm in the mood.

My husband would stay home if I asked him to, but who wants a man home if he is there by request?

Don't tell me to join a club or find a hobby. I'm plenty busy with four sons. It's those hours between midnight and 3 a.m. that get to me.

I know he's not cheating, it's just that he'd rather be with the boys than at home — and this is hard to take. Is there a solution? — LONELY.

-:-

Dear Lonely: I get this same letter 50 times every day. Only the signatures are different.

My advice is (1) Don't nag; (2) don't beg for his presence; (3) keep yourself busy and (4) turn on the heat.

You've got an immature kid on your hands, but kids do grow up with the proper guidance and adult behavior to imitate. So, be mature, in spite of his juvenile approach to marriage, and let's hope your husband becomes a man before his sons notice they've passed him.

Woman Upstairs

Dear Ann: My husband and I are a retired couple who have found an ideal apartment. We've lived here two years and love it.

In October a woman (about 50) moved in directly above us. This dilly has a string of male visitors who stay anywhere from an hour to three days. Her telephone rings day and night. She runs the bath water at 3 in the morning. Her radio and TV could wake the dead.

Would it do any good to ask the landlord to throw her out? Or should we look for another place to live? We never will be able to find an apartment as good in this neighborhood and at this price. — SENIOR COUPLE.

Dear Couple: Move. It could be that this dilly entertains only her friends — and she doesn't have an enemy in the world.

You'd have a difficult time proving she is what you think she is. If you are wrong, she could sue you for defamation of character. I say, tain't worth it.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send hem to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Nature Guide Offered For Tomlinson Run

A Nature Guide of Tomlinson Run State Park has been published by the Hancock County Nature Committee, Oliver Johnson, county extension agent, has announced.

According to Johnson, the geological description of the park, presented in a chart, "gives us an idea of what is beneath our feet." Included in the guide is a list and description of the six park trails, a complete map of the park, its climate and various references for a nature program.

"The points in leading a nature group are listed and may be helpful for a more interesting nature field trip," Johnson noted.

He attributed much of the success of the work to W. J. Sumpstine, former Professor of biology at Bethany College. Sumpstine devoted three summers to the study of the plant life and ecology of the park as his special project for a Doctorate Degree, but died before he was able to publish the vast amount of information he had collected.

Sumpstine's records of Tomlinson Run were given to the county nature committee by his wife. His work, called the most complete study ever made of a state park in West Virginia, is the basis for the nature guide. A complete bibliography is included.

The nature guide was prepared for the use of nature leaders, Johnson pointed out. "It is not intended for general distribution and may never be available again." Copies are being sent to leaders of youth groups, school and public libraries.

The Hancock County Nature Committee members are Mrs. Gail Jones, Mrs. James Arehart, Mr. and Mrs. N. T. Holbrook, Miss Kathryn Minesinger, William Murray, Richard Brenneman and E. R. Chandler.

Johnson said copies of the guide may be obtained by phoning the courthouse in New Cumberland or writing the County Extension Office, Box 457, New Cumberland, W. Va., 26047.

James Lowe Reports $29 Election Expense

James E. Lowe, Republican, spent $29.26 in his successful campaign for renomination as Third Ward councilman in the May 2 primaries, it was shown in a sworn statement of expenditures on file with the County Election Board's office.

Meanwhile, James R. Allison, president of the East Palestine Chamber of Commerce, reported it spent $50 in support of street and park levies which were approved at the primary.

June 16 at 4 p.m. is the deadline for the reports. Ohio law requires they must be filed by all candidates, whether or not they were successful, and by committees which supported or opposed any candidate or issue.

Commissioners, Township Group Sift Road Action

A delegation from Liverpool Township conferred with Columbiana County commissioners at Lisbon Monday relative to a road situation.

Gerald and Alberta J. Hayes and Robert and Kathryn Powell of the Township and Frank Gray and Guy Digman, township trustees, were in the group.

They want the commissioners and County Engineer John Ursu to participate in opening Valley Ave., a dedicated but undeveloped street north of Pennsylvania Ave. in the East End of East Liverpool.

Valley Ave. is about 100 feet east of Dry Run Alley, a narrow road in public use. Ursu said Digman said the trustees have no money to develop Valley, but will be willing to use their equipment to help. Ursu said the south end of the street is inside the city and a Dry Run resident has a garage on land in Valley Ave.

The trustees also asked for county help to prevent flooding and washouts where Dry Run Alley goes over a culvert farther north. Ursu said the county will furnish the pipe if trustees will install it.

County commissioners and Ursu will check both locations next Monday.

Three-Vehicle Pileup Among Area Accidents

A tractor - trailer was heavily damaged in a three-vehicle pileup at Cannons Mills Monday, one of four area accidents investigated by the Highway Patrol at Lisbon.

The crash involved the rig operated by Raymond Parr, 22, of Rayland R.D. 1, who was cited; a Salvation Army truck driven by Leroy W. Geyer, 52, of Youngstown, and a 1964 sedan operated by Frank McMaster, 26, of Pittsburgh.

OFFICERS SAID McMaster halted on Route 7 to make a left turn onto County Rd. 430. Geyer halted behind him and his truck was struck in the rear by the tractor - trailer rig. The impact drove the Salvation Army truck into the rear of the car.

Parr was cited for failure to stop in the assured clear distance and for failure to have a chauffeur's license. Officers said the front of the 1955 model tractor was nearly demolished. Moderate damage resulted to the rear of the other truck and light damage to the car. The accident was timed at noon.

A NEWELL motorist was cited following an accident Monday at 6:30 a.m. near Rogers in which two cars were damaged and a tractor - trailer rig jackknifed.

The mishap involved cars driven by Ruben Arredondo, 25, of the Newell Trailer Park, and Arthur Frankenburg, 66, of Rogers and the truck operated by Kenneth King, 35, of Crystalville.

The mishap occurred on Route 7, a tenth of a mile north of the village. Frankenburg was headed north when Arredondo came up behind him. Unable to slow, Arredondo struck the rear of the Frankenburg car, swerved off the right side of the highway and spun around. His car then came back onto the highway and went left of center where it was struck by the truck.

The rig then jackknifed and then went into a ditch, officers said.

Frankenburg and a passenger in his car, Mary E. Frankenburg, 26, also of Rogers, both complained of injuries.

Arredondo, whose 1965 sedan was heavily damaged, was treated at City Hospital later in the day for a laceration of the left eyelid. He was cited for failure to halt in the assured clear distance.

—:—

Officers said Gunn was southbound when he struck the northbound Ellis car. Ellis complained of injuries.

Cars operated by Joseph C. Nussbaum, 25, of Sandusky and Robert J. Smith, 21, of New Waterford R.D. 1 figured in a collision at 8:56 a.m. on Route 30 at the junction with Route 170.

Nussbaum was southbound in the left lane intending to enter the Route 30 ramp when he was struck in the rear by Smith, officers said. The lane was not marked and Nussbaum became confused, they added.

Three-Vehicle Pileup Among Area Accidents

A tractor - trailer was heavily damaged in a three-vehicle pileup at Cannons Mills Monday, one of four area accidents investigated by the Highway Patrol at Lisbon.

The crash involved the rig operated by Raymond Parr, 22, of Rayland R.D. 1, who was cited; a Salvation Army truck driven by Leroy W. Geyer, 52, of Youngstown, and a 1964 sedan operated by Frank McMaster, 26, of Pittsburgh.

OFFICERS SAID McMaster halted on Route 7 to make a left turn onto County Rd. 430. Geyer halted behind him and his truck was struck in the rear by the tractor - trailer rig. The impact drove the Salvation Army truck into the rear of the car.

Parr was cited for failure to stop in the assured clear distance and for failure to have a chauffeur's license. Officers said the front of the 1955 model tractor was nearly demolished. Moderate damage resulted to the rear of the other truck and light damage to the car. The accident was timed at noon.

A NEWELL motorist was cited following an accident Monday at 6:30 a.m. near Rogers in which two cars were damaged and a tractor - trailer rig jackknifed.

The mishap involved cars driven by Ruben Arredondo, 25, of the Newell Trailer Park, and Arthur Frankenburg, 66, of Rogers and the truck operated by Kenneth King, 35, of Crystalville.

The mishap occurred on Route 7, a tenth of a mile north of the village. Frankenburg was headed north when Arredondo came up behind him. Unable to slow, Arredondo struck the rear of the Frankenburg car, swerved off the right side of the highway and spun around. His car then came back onto the highway and went left of center where it was struck by the truck.

The rig then jackknifed and then went into a ditch, officers said.

Frankenburg and a passenger in his car, Mary E. Frankenburg, 26, also of Rogers, both complained of injuries.

Arredondo, whose 1965 sedan was heavily damaged, was treated at City Hospital later in the day for a laceration of the left eyelid. He was cited for failure to halt in the assured clear distance.

—:—

Officers said Gunn was southbound when he struck the northbound Ellis car. Ellis complained of injuries.

Cars operated by Joseph C. Nussbaum, 25, of Sandusky and Robert J. Smith, 21, of New Waterford R.D. 1 figured in a collision at 8:56 a.m. on Route 30 at the junction with Route 170.

Nussbaum was southbound in the left lane intending to enter the Route 30 ramp when he was struck in the rear by Smith, officers said. The lane was not marked and Nussbaum became confused, they added.

By Changing Decorative Scheme

You Can Play It 'Cool'

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

You can make your home seem many degrees cooler in summer by changing your decorative scheme, says interior designer Michael Greer.

Greer gives his own apartment low - thermometer treatment every summer. The cool-as-a-lettuce-leaf look is achieved with sleight of hand that includes summer slipcovers, straw rugs and a whole set of different accessories.

"If you do not change the rug, it is best to stick basically to the same color fabrics you had before. If the room has numerous plain color fabrics in winter, you can get a pleasant change by using nice splashy prints," he points out.

HE USES striped cotton in neutral colors and a straw rug "of almost no color" because he uses bright colors in winter. The change from hot to cool decorating is a psychological coup in itself.

"One fringe benefit of using slipcovers is that it gives you the opportunity of altering the look of a room completely, even though you use the same furniture. A very neutral summer scheme, the direct opposite of a very bright winter look can provide a whole new mood.

Greer slipcovers just about everything that will take it, even the ottomans. He upholsters the fireplace screen in the same fabric.

This is a chic effect in contrast to the emptiness of the hearth one normally faces in summer. The beige, gray and white striped cotton fabric is used on chairs and a sofa. Straw rugs that cost $25 take the place of his winter Aubussons.

He likes to change accessories in summer and substitutes clear crystal and amber glass for porcelains and objects d'art.

MANY PEOPLE find storage of seasonal accessories a nuisance, but he has found that if one reserves a closet shelf or storage area for these objects, it will be merely a matter of moving one set in and the other out. The idea is to take the giant step and make the space available. After that, there should be no problem.

One great advantage of the seasonal accessory look is that it can solve clutter. Lovely things often are so crowded together that they can never earn full appreciation of the beholder.

The objects should be sorted, and some of them stored. You'll appreciate them more when you can see your treasures in proper perspective.

Greer is a guest speaker for many women's groups and unravels many questions about home furnishings terminology for the ladies.

He is likely to tell them a "toile" is the same as a chintz, and that chintz isn't always glazed or big flashy floral prints, that dark stained floors are in better taste than light ones, and that one should try for an "architectural" look at windows and doors to give a room character.

The popular interior designer wrote the book "Inside Interior Design," now in its fourth printing.

Store Has 'Pioneer' Retirement Planning

CHICAGO (AP) — Preparing for retirement is a problem a Chicago department store firm has met head-on by a "pioneer" pre-retirement planning program.

Margaret Sawyer, director of counseling and employee activities for Carson Pirie Scott and Company, said a nine - session course, "Life In Later Maturity," has been given since 1952.

Employes age 60 and over have annual interviews with the director of counseling, informally discussing retirement benefits and future plans.

The number of retired associates who comment on the value of the counseling sessions and the course," said Miss Sawyer, "say the program not only helped them prepare for retirement but has assisted them to lead intereresting, meaningful lives after graduation from work."

Steel Output Shows Gains

CLEVELAND (AP)—Steel demand is "displaying a little more verve" and production edged upward again for the third straight week, Steel Magazine reported Monday.

"Recent May-June delivery buying of fill-in tonnage for completion of 1967 model auto assembly schedules brightens the near term consumption prospects," the weekly trade publication reported. "Some observers think June may be one of the best months for the steelmakers in some time. This is particularly so for the light, flat rolled products which have been the market sluggards for the last several months."

Although the usual summer slump is expected this year, it "May not be as severe as usual," Steel said.

"In fact, some steel executives anticipate a third quarter tonnage movement equal to, possibly in excess of, that in the current three-month period."

Production was estimated by Steel at 2,423,000 net tons for the week ended May 27, compared with 2,408,000 for the preceding week.

Despite improved demand, "concern over competition from abroad is intensifying," Steel said. Steelmakers "are not happy about the Kennedy Round agreements lowering tariffs on thousands of industrial items, including steel. Imports in the first quarter were up 21 per cent in tonnage and 23 per cent in value compared with the like period a year ago . . .

"Steel leaders envision a 30 million ton annual intake of foreign steel by 1970—unless the government stems the flood," the trade publication continued.

Steel's price composite on top grade steelmaking scrap slipped 8 cents to $26.25 per gross ton last week.

Permanent Edge

Lawn Protection Plan Offered

By DOUGLAS TUOMEY

The home owner who takes particular pride in the sharp, well-defined edges of his road, paths and lawns is well aware that keeping them in such shape involves a considerable amount of work with turf edger and snipe for eight months a year.

Let a visitor be careless with his car, and the edge is broken down, only to be repaired with several hours of real work. Lawns encorach on a roadway during every season and the edge has to be cut back regularly to maintain a standard road width.

A permanent edge for a lawn can be readily secured with 2-by-4's laid along any existing lawn and spiked down into the road with three-inch nails.

When this method is used, the 2-by-4's are painted green, holes bored through them at intervals of 10 feet and the nails driven down into the road or path. If a car should be run over the edge and into the lawn, it rides easily over this solid curb and doesn't injure it.

THE GRASS, which naturally will grow to or over the wood curbing, is easily snipped as rapidly as one can walk along the edge. There is no erosion of the lawn edge from heavy rains or frost action. Weed killer can be applied to the road surface without any danger of eating through into the lawn, which is one of the chief difficulties encountered in the use of this chemical.

Two-by-fours are a standard item in all house construction and are available at house wreckers or secondhand building material yards. The number of running feet required for much in dollars and cents.

The average grounds is not

The one difficulty with this type of curb is getting curves to fit the existing design on a road or path.

It is one thing to bend light wood strips and another to get a curve in a 2-by-4. This is best accomplished by saturating the 2-by-4 with water, immersing it completely for a day or two until it is quite flexible, and then making a bow of it with rope attached to each end, exerting increased tension until the desired arc is produced. It also helps to cut notches through one side so that it is easier to bend the length.

Only once in our past history did the president's cabinet remain unchanged for the full four years — Franklin Pierce's administration.

Weatherman May Steal Show In Indianapolis Classic

The Review Sports

TUESDAY, MAY 30, 1967 EAST LIVERPOOL REVIEW PAGE 16

SAN FRANCISCO GIANTS' third sacker Jim Davenport slides home safely in the 6th inning on Willie Mays' double to left against Phillies Monday at San Francisco. Play was from left to short to catcher Clay Dalrymple. Umpire is Tony Venson. Giants scored 4 runs in the sixth and won, 12-9. (UPI Telephoto)

300,000 Await 500-Mile Race

By JERRY LISKA

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — The weatherman may steal the thunder from Parnelli Jones and Silent Sam, his touted turbocar, when the swiftest field in history roars off in the $700,000 Indianapolis 500-mile auto race Tuesday.

A 50-50 chance of showers, with temperatures in the 70s, is forecast for the Memorial Day speed contest which promises to unveil, before upward of 300,000 racing buffs, another mechanical revolution on the famed 2½-mile Indy course.

As the 33-driver field, owning a record 164.173 m.p.h. qualifying speed, listens for Indianapolis Motor Speedway owner Tony Hulman's chant of "Gentlemen, start your engines" at 11 a.m., EST, all attention will focus on a glowing red low-slung roadster, No. 40—outside car on the second three-car lane.

That's Jones' celebrated mount, the revolutionary STP turbine car which has caused as much turmoil as the now typical Indy starter—the rear-engined racer—did in the hands of Australian Jack Brabham in 1961.

Four years later, the rear-engine trend had routed the old conventional front-engined Offy, in the first foreign driver victory in a half century. That was the 1965 triumph by Scotland's Jimmy Clark in a rear-engined Lotus Ford.

Now Clark, last year's winner, Britisher Graham Hill; and the rest of the field, including two-time champion A. J. Foyt and pole car driver, the Italian-born Mario Andretti, are worried over the turbine threat.

The opinion of all is summarized by now-retired Rodger Ward, two-time champion who said: "If Parnelli Jones' car holds together and avoids transmission troubles, he should win in a close race. But the turbine really is an unknown quantity."

The turbocar already has brought one Indy mandate—It must race with a sort of smokestack, a baffle, to carry off the intense heat which bothered pursuing drivers in recent warmups. The car runs silently, with a glowplug, like the hot end of a car cigarette lighter, firing the fuel.

Jones' qualifying speed in the turbocar was sixth best, at 166.075 m.p.h., compared with Andretti's pole-winning record speed of 168.982. However, railbirds suspect the turbo was running under wraps, based on the way Jones easily smoked off Andretti in Friday's final practice.

Only one race, the 1915 event, was postponed by inclement weather, being shifted from a Saturday to a Monday. Two were stopped in progress by rain, the 1926 chase halted after 400 miles and the 1950 contest at 345 miles.

Last year, when Hill victoriously wove through an unbelievable first turn crackup which sent wheels flying and 11 cars out of the race at the outset, only seven of the 33 entries were running at the end, and only four ran the full 200 laps for the 500 miles.

Haller Leads Dodgers Past Phils By 12-9

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Tom Haller, who entered the game in the fifth inning, drove in five runs for San Francisco Monday and the Giants held off a ninth-inning Philadelphia rally to beat the Phillies 12-9.

Haller drove in two runs in the Giants' four-run sixth with a single and drove in two more with another single in the seventh, in which the Giants again scored four times. He drove in another with a forceout in the fifth.

The Phillies scored six times with two out in the ninth inning, two coming on Tony Taylor's single, one each on singles by rich Allen and John Callison and two more on Don Lock's double.

Lindy McDaniel finally got Cookie Rojas to fly out ending the game.

Buckpasser, 3 Others In Action On 3 Fronts

By The Associated Press

Buckpasser, everybody's champion last year, and a trio from the higher echelon of the turf's 1967 3-year-old division, will be in action on three fronts Tuesday as thoroughbred racing enjoys its biggest money splurge of the year.

On the basis of other years, some 400,000 fans are expected to wager in the neighborhood of $35 million at more than 20 running tracks. Feature races will be worth close to $400,000.

Buckpasser, unbeaten in his last 14 starts and winner of $1,271,224 on a record of 23 victories and two seconds in 25 career starts, goes against eight rivals in the one mile of the $100,000 - added Metropolitan Handicap at Aqueduct.

Although he'll be asked to carry 130 pounds and give up to 23 pounds to his rivals, including 15 to stablemate Stupendous, the 4-year-old son of Tom Fool is the 2-5 choice to earn $72,930 of the purse of $112,200 for Ogden Phipps.

Dr. Fager, who bypassed the Kentucky Derby and Preakness, and In Reality, runner-up to Damascus in the Preakness, hook up in the 1⅛ miles of the $100,000-added Jersey Derby at Garden State Park.

Tumiga, with only a defeat by Dr. Fager in the Withers Mile to mar an otherwise perfect record, has traveled from New York to California to take on 13 other 3-year-olds in the one mile of the $50,000-added Will Rogers Stakes at Hollywood Park. Tumiga will carry topweight of 120 pounds.

Assagai, 1966 grass course champion, heads a field of eight turf specialists named for the 1⅛ miles of the $40,000-added Round Table Handicap at Arlington Park. He'll carry top weight of 124 pounds.

Ashe Whips Osuna, U.S. Advances In Davis Cup

By JACK RUTLEDGE

MEXICO CITY (AP) —Arthur Ashe of Richmond, Va., passed over last year in the crucial Davis Cup singles play against Brazil, trounced Rafael Osuna 8-6, 6-3, 6-2 Monday and lifted the United States past Mexico in the North American Zone final.

Ashe's victory in the best-of-5 series gave the United States an unbeatable 3-1 lead and sent it into the American Zone final against Ecuador.

The fifth game, matching Cliff Richey of San Angelo, Tex., and Marcelo Lara, was postponed by a sudden rain shower.

Richey won the first set 8-6 and Lara the second 6-3 when a deluge hit the red clay court at the Chapultepec Sports Center. The wind-up of the match will be held Tuesday.

Ashe, a 23-year-old Negro on leave from the Army, unleashed his blazing serve against Osuna and the Mexican was unable to handle it.

Ashe, who never lost his service, broke Osuna in the 14th game of the first set and the fourth of the second before completely overpowering Osuna in the third.

Osuna, the hero of Mexico's first Davis Cup victory over the United States in 1962, was taking oxygen after each game as he did in his opening singles victory over Richey, but it did not help.

"I'm not even breathing hard," Ashe said after the match in Mexico's mountainous altitude. Osuna hurried to the dressing room without comment.

For Ashe, the No. 1 U.S. player, who is now unbeaten in nine Davis Cup singles matches, it must have been a tremendously satisfying victory. He had been left out of singles play—a move that surprised most tennis fans —last year when Brazil upset the United States in the American Zone final.

He gave the U.S. a 1-1 tie by beating Lara the first day in straight sets and wrapped it up after Clark Graebner and Marty Reissen handled Osuna and Maquin Loyo Mayo in the doubles Sunday.

Robinson May Have Eye On 2nd 'Triple Crown'

By BEN OLAN

NEW YORK (AP) — Frank Robinson, Baltimore's most single important factor in winning baseball's world championship last season, seems to have designs on accomplishing a double triple crown.

As the 1967 campaign nears the Memorial Day milestone, the hard-hitting outfielder paces the American League in home runs while occupying the runner-up position in batting and runs batted in. He took the triple crown in the AL in 1966 with a .316 batting mark, 49 homers and 122 RBI.

Rogers Hornsby of the St. Louis Cards and Ted Williams of the Boston Red Sox have been the only players to capture two triple crowns, Hornsby in 1922 and 1925 and Williams in 1942 and 1947.

Robinson slammed four homers in last week's games and took over the lead with 13. He drove in nine runs, boosting his total to 33 and climbed to within two of Detroit's Al Kaline, the leader.

Kaline's batting lead was reduced considerably. He dropped 16 points to .345 by collecting only five hits in 20 times at bat. Robinson has a .326 mark.

Pittsburgh's Roberto Clemente continues to hold the No. 1 spot in the National League batting race. He slipped three points to .385 with a 10-for-27 performance.

Orlando Cepedo of St. Louis dropped eight points to .365 but held onto second place.

2 U.S. Golfers Advance In British Amateur Play

By JOHN FARROW

FORMBY, England (AP) — Bill Campbell and Downing Gray stormed through to the second round of the British Amateur Golf Championship Monday after two other U.S. Walker Cup stars were knocked out by little-known Britons.

Campbell, 44-year-old golfing crusader who led the Americans to a 13-7 victory over Britain in the Walker Cup nine days ago, defeated Bernard Gallacher of Scotland, 2 and 1.

Gray chalked up the day's best victory for the Americans by defeating England's Ted Jordan, 5 and 4.

Those victories came after two American Walker Cup players — 19-year-old Jack Lewis and Don Allen — suffered surprise defeats in the first day's play over Formby's 6,854-yard, par 72 links alongside the Irish Sea.

Campbell, from Huntington, W.Va., is the favorite to win the title in his 17th try. The British title is one of the greatest amateur crowns in golf — first played for in 1885.

Campbell was three up at the sixth hole, but Gallacher came back with his fighting Scottish heart. He sank a 36-footer for a birdie 3 at the eighth, and that upset Campbell so much that he three-putted the ninth.

But Campbell, winner of all his Walker Cup matches at Sandwich, was unruffled. He went on to sink an eight-footer for a birdie 2 at the 16th — the putt that clinched the match.

Gray from Pensacola, Fla., won five straight holes from the ninth through the 13th to destroy Jordan.

Probably the most disappointed American in the field was Lewis, the youngster from Florence, S.C., who partnered Campbell in the Walker Cup foursomes and had been expected to do well in the British Amateur.

But, suffering from a heavy cold, Lewis went out by one hole to Alan Murphy, a 25-year-old Scot.

Lewis's disappointment was matched by that of Allen, from Rochester, N.Y., who lost on the 19th hole to Ray Ratcliffe of Britain.

Reds' Harper On Disabled List With Fractured Wrist

CINCINNATI (AP) — Tommy Harper, Cincinnati Reds' right fielder, was placed on the disabled list Monday with a fractured right wrist he received Sunday when he crashed into a fence while chasing a foul fly in the game at Pittsburgh.

At first it was thought Harper had suffered only a sprained wrist.

The action means that at least 21 days must elapse before Harper can be returned to active duty.

There was no indication as to who would take Harper's place in the starting lineup, but manager Dave Bristol has Art Shamsky, Floyd Robinson and Dick Simpson available.

Harper has been having his hitting troubles thus far and is batting only .205 with eight runs batted in. Last year he batted .278.

The injury to Harper was one of several that have plagued the first-place Reds this year.

Pitcher Jim Maloney was troubled with a "tightening" in his pitching arm during the first month or so of the season and missed some starting assignments.

Third baseman Deron Johnson and second baseman Tommy Helms were injured in the same game at Atlanta earlier this month and both were out of action.

Ted Abernathy, who has been the star of the Reds bullpen, last week pulled a thigh muscle when he fell and he's out for an indefinite period.

Memorial Day in my opinion is one of the most significant and beautiful occasions of the year. It shows the sentiment of the people toward those who gave their lives for a patriotism which is without a parallel. Memorial Day cannot be too tenderly revered by old and young, by those who participated in one of the nation's great struggles. Our country each year pays greater tribute and respect to the soldier living and dead and we hope it continues in a more expanded form.

Weatherman May Steal Show In Indianapolis Classic

300,000 Await 500-Mile Race

By JERRY LISKA

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — The weatherman may steal the thunder from Parnelli Jones and Silent Sam, his touted turbocar, when the swiftest field in history roars off in the $700,000 Indianapolis 500-mile auto race Tuesday.

A 50-50 chance of showers, with temperatures in the 70s, is forecast for the Memorial Day speed contest which promises to unveil, before upward of 300,000 racing buffs, another mechanical revolution on the famed 2½-mile Indy course.

As the 33-driver field, owning a record 164.173 m.p.h. qualifying speed, listens for Indianapolis Motor Speedway owner Tony Hulman's chant of "Gentlemen, start your engines" at 11 a.m., EST, all attention will focus on a glowing red low-slung roadster, No. 40—outside car on the second three-car lane.

That's Jones' celebrated mount, the revolutionary STP turbine car which has caused as much turmoil as the now typical Indy starter—the rear-engined racer—did in the hands of Australian Jack Brabham in 1961.

Four years later, the rear-engine trend had routed the old conventional front-engined Offy, in the first foreign driver victory in a half century. That was the 1965 triumph by Scotland's Jimmy Clark in a rear-engined Lotus Ford.

Now Clark, last year's winner, Britisher Graham Hill; and the rest of the field, including two-time champion A. J. Foyt and pole car driver, the Italian-born Mario Andretti, are worried over the turbine threat.

The opinion of all is summarized by now-retired Rodger Ward, two-time champion who said: "If Parnelli Jones' car holds together and avoids transmission troubles, he should win in a close race. But the turbine really is an unknown quantity."

The turbocar already has brought one Indy mandate—It must race with a sort of smokestack, a baffle, to carry off the intense heat which bothered pursuing drivers in recent warmups. The car runs silently, with a glowplug, like the hot end of a car cigarette lighter, firing the fuel.

Jones' qualifying speed in the turbocar was sixth best, at 166.075 m.p.h., compared with Andretti's pole-winning record speed of 168.982. However, railbirds suspect the turbo was running under wraps, based on the way Jones easily smoked off Andretti in Friday's final practice.

Only one race, the 1915 event, was postponed by inclement weather, being shifted from a Saturday to a Monday. Two were stopped in progress by rain, the 1926 chase halted after 400 miles and the 1950 contest at 345 miles.

Last year, when Hill victoriously wove through an unbelievable first turn crackup which sent wheels flying and 11 cars out of the race at the outset, only seven of the 33 entries were running at the end, and only four ran the full 200 laps for the 500 miles.

Haller Leads Dodgers Past Phils By 12-9

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Tom Haller, who entered the game in the fifth inning, drove in five runs for San Francisco Monday and the Giants held off a ninth-inning Philadelphia rally to beat the Phillies 12-9.

Haller drove in two runs in the Giants' four-run sixth with a single and drove in two more with another single in the seventh, in which the Giants again scored four times. He drove in another with a forceout in the fifth.

The Phillies scored six times with two out in the ninth inning, two coming on Tony Taylor's single, one each on singles by rich Allen and John Callison and two more on Don Lock's double.

Lindy McDaniel finally got Cookie Rojas to fly out ending the game.

Campbell, 44-year-old golfing crusader who led the Americans to a 13-7 victory over Britain in the Walker Cup nine days ago, defeated Bernard Gallacher of Scotland, 2 and 1.

Gray chalked up the day's best victory for the Americans by defeating England's Ted Jordan, 5 and 4.

Those victories came after two American Walker Cup players — 19-year-old Jack Lewis and Don Allen — suffered surprise defeats in the first day's play over Formby's 6,854-yard, par 72 links alongside the Irish Sea.

Campbell, from Huntington, W.Va., is the favorite to win the title in his 17th try. The British title is one of the greatest amateur crowns in golf — first played for in 1885.

Campbell was three up at the sixth hole, but Gallacher came back with his fighting Scottish heart. He sank a 36-footer for a birdie 3 at the eighth, and that upset Campbell so much that he three-putted the ninth.

But Campbell, winner of all his Walker Cup matches at Sandwich, was unruffled. He went on to sink an eight-footer for a birdie 2 at the 16th — the putt that clinched the match.

Gray from Pensacola, Fla., won five straight holes from the ninth through the 13th to destroy Jordan.

Probably the most disappointed American in the field was Lewis, the youngster from Florence, S.C., who partnered Campbell in the Walker Cup foursomes and had been expected to do well in the British Amateur.

But, suffering from a heavy cold, Lewis went out by one hole to Alan Murphy, a 25-year-old Scot.

Lewis's disappointment was matched by that of Allen, from Rochester, N.Y., who lost on the 19th hole to Ray Ratcliffe of Britain.

Reds' Harper On Disabled List With Fractured Wrist

CINCINNATI (AP) — Tommy Harper, Cincinnati Reds' right fielder, was placed on the disabled list Monday with a fractured right wrist he received Sunday when he crashed into a fence while chasing a foul fly in the game at Pittsburgh.

At first it was thought Harper had suffered only a sprained wrist.

The action means that at least 21 days must elapse before Harper can be returned to active duty.

There was no indication as to who would take Harper's place in the starting lineup, but manager Dave Bristol has Art Shamsky, Floyd Robinson and Dick Simpson available.

Harper has been having his hitting troubles thus far and is batting only .205 with eight runs batted in. Last year he batted .278.

The injury to Harper was one of several that have plagued the first-place Reds this year.

Pitcher Jim Maloney was troubled with a "tightening" in his pitching arm during the first month or so of the season and missed some starting assignments.

Third baseman Deron Johnson and second baseman Tommy Helms were injured in the same game at Atlanta earlier this month and both were out of action.

Ted Abernathy, who has been the star of the Reds bullpen, last week pulled a thigh muscle when he fell and he's out for an indefinite period.

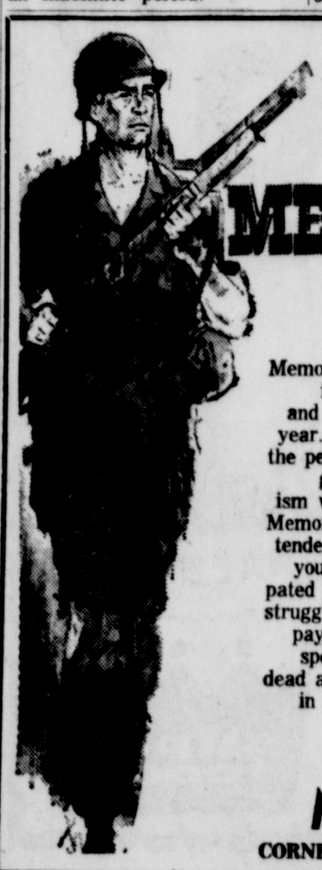

Wednesday Slated If Rain Halts Race

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — If rain forces postponement of Tuesday's Memorial Day 500-mile auto race for the first time in more than half-century, the event will be held Wednesday, weather permitting.

A 50-50 chance of showers was predicted for the 51st running of the motor classic.

A Speedway spokesman said every effort will be made to run the 33-car race Tuesday, even if the start is delayed from the traditional 11 a.m. EST blastoff until as late as 3 p.m.

A PLEDGE FOR
MEMORIAL DAY

Memorial Day in my opinion is one of the most significant and beautiful occasions of the year. It shows the sentiment of the people toward those who gave their lives for a patriotism which is without a parallel. Memorial Day cannot be too tenderly revered by old and young, by those who participated in one of the nation's great struggles. Our country each year pays greater tribute and respect to the soldier living and dead and we hope it continues in a more expanded form.

Casper And Geiberger Are Golf Day Target

VENTURA, Calif. (AP)—Bill Casper and Al Geiberger will play 18 holes on the spanking new Olivas Park Golf Course Tuesday to provide a target for thousands of the nation's divot diggers on National Golf Day.

The standard will be the lowest round by either Casper, the 1966 U.S. Open champion, or Geiberger, the 1966 PGA champ. Golfers who beat that mark, using their handicaps will get golf bag tags proclaiming their feats.

The course measures 6,769 yards and par is 36-36—72.

Coffee Break Attracts 100

Approximately 100 attended the coffee break of the Penova Citizens Band Radio Club Saturday night at the clubhouse on Route 45, near Wellsville.

The "Lost Children" of East Liverpool provided music for dancing at the get-together held from 7 to 12. Another coffee break and wiener roast will be held June 16 at 7 p.m. by the club, which serves the tri-state area.

Mrs. Jennie Calhoun of East Liverpool received the grand prize; Ray Daily and family of Geneva the prize for traveling the farthest distance; Mrs. Dorothy Manning of East Liverpool, largest family, and Joe Brown of Hammondsville, cake walk. Mrs. Beulah Dye, chairman of the refreshment committee, was assisted by women of the club.

Representatives were present from Highlandtown, Salineville, Chester, Newell, New Cumberland, East Liverpool, Geneva, Beaver, Lisbon, Rogers and Wellsville.

A design for a new patch for jackets, drawn by Robert Cheseler, was submitted by Dave Laneve, president, at the meeting of the club Sunday night in the clubhouse.

Earl Hartford was appointed to obtain the prize for the patch and was chosen to remain at the clubhouse to watch over the prizes preceding the jamboree June 25 at the New Waterford Fish and Game Park.

Mrs. Kay Chiseler will be chairman of the refreshment committee for the jamboree, with Mrs. Dye, Mrs. Norma Ketchum and other women members assisting her.

The president opened the meeting with prayer.

Seven officers responded to roll call. Hartford served as secretary pro-tem.

Learn To Spot Double Talk

Ida Jean Kain

Everybody loves to eat. Nobody wants to be fat. It is easy to understand the longing for a magic diet by which calories disappear in some mysterious metabolic process. Far-fetched fads may sound so intriguing that even intelligent people are tempted to listen to the sweet music of promise. A reader, hopeful that the following statement might possibly be the magic solution to creeping poundage, inquiries:

"Is it true that some foods require more calories to digest than they furnish? If so, it would be quite an aid to reducing," she comments.

IT IS not true. There is no diet plan by which you can disregard the total calories consumed. Under the beguiling title "Eat, Eat, Eat Your Pounds Away," here is the excerpt from the article which apeared in a chic fashion magazine: "Some foods to be digested, require such elaborate chemical changes that they use up in the process more calories than they contribute. A hard - cooked egg, for instance, represents 80 calories. Yet it requires 92 calories to digest. The extra 12 calories must be drawn from the body's fat reserves."

The beauty - writer of the article then jumped to the fantastic conclusion that "the more you eat of these 'minus - calories' foods the more fat reserves you must deplete to digest them and consequently the more weight you will lose."

Readers, use your reasoning powers. Learn to spot the pseudo-scientific diet double-talk, so you can separate fact from fad. Here are the facts:

The eating of food causes an increase in metabolism. This stimulus which food gives is termed the specific dynamic action of food. Carbohydrate and fat cause the least rise; protein the greatest. Therefore, a diet high in protein leads to a slightly greater weight loss than does a diet with less protein but the same number of calories. But you cannot eat a diet of pure protein. Most high protein foods are about 50 per cent fat.

THE FALLACY back of the ridiculous statement that "the more you eat of these foods the more you lose" is this: The author has blithly ignored the calories which the foods contributed. Protein furnishes fuel at 113 calories per ounce and fats furnish 255 calories per ounce. If the fuel "calories" consumed add up to more than your daily requirements, you will gain, not lose weight.

The best reducing diet to date is the time - honored, scientifically - planned, balanced low-calorie food pattern made up of a variety of protective foods. The scientifically - planned diet is more sensational in positive results than faddy fare ever could be.

Send stamped, self - addressed, long envelope for the new Calorie Chart, which includes the basic protective food pattern. Address your request to Ida Jean Kain in care of The Review.

Cleveland 'Stop, Frisk' Case Set For Court Study

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court Monday added a "stop and frisk" case from Cleveland to its scheduled study of police street practices next term.

The case involves the street arrest of two men, John W Terry, 33, and Richard D. Chilton, 28, and their subsequent convictions on charges of carrying concealed weapons.

They were frisked by a policeman on the sidewalk in front of a department store. The officer had observed them for some time and concluded their behavior was suspicious.

Counsel for Terry and Chilton asked the court to decide whether a policeman, "acting upon bare suspicion alone" and "where no emergency exists", can stop, frisk and search people for a weapon on the street.

The Supreme Court last March agreed to hear two stop-and - frisk cases from New York next term. The police practice will be measured against the prohibition the 4th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution puts on unreasonable searches and seizures.

The Terry and Chilton convictions were affirmed by the court of Appeals for Cuyahoga County. Last October the Ohio Supreme Court dismissed their appeals.

2 Suffer Wounds In Bank Robbery

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—A customer and an employe were wounded by shotgun fire Monday afternoon as two men robbed a bank branch at a busy Toledo shopping center.

The robbers, one carrying a shutgun and the other an automatic pistol, fled with an undetermined amount of money after holding up the Lucas County State Bank branch at Monroe St. and Central Ave. shortly after 4 p.m.

They were believed to have escaped in a Cadillac which was reported missing immediately after the theft.

Group To Ask LBJ For Probe Of Trial

CINCINNATI (AP)— A civic group from a predominantly Negro area of Cincinnati plans to ask President Johnson to order an investigation of the trial and conviction of Posteal Laskey Jr.

Robert C. Weaver, president of the Evanston Business and Professional Association, said an appeal to the President was the only thing left since Ohio authorities declined to appoint a special grand jury to probe the case.

Laskey, a 29-year-old Negro laborer, was convicted last March of the murder of Barbara Bowman, a white woman. He was sentenced to death, but the case is being appealed.

Workers Return At Struck Plant Despite Pickets

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP) — About half the work force at the strikebound Stevens Manufacturing Co. in nearby Lexington was back on the job Monday, despite picketing at the main gate.

No incidents were reported.

More than 300 employes--mostly office workers--returned to their jobs Monday after Richland County Common Pleas Court last Thursday issued an injunction against Local 709, International Union of Electrical Workers, prohibiting it from interfering with plant operations.

The court also limited the number of pickets to 12.

The company -- which makes electrical components -- employs about 570 workers and some 300 are members of Local 709.

Phillip Beasley, Local 709 president, said a major issue in the walkout-which began May 11 -- is a union shop. Some of the production workers who returned to the plant Monday are not union members.

A dollar bill has an average life expectancy of 18 months in circulation.

Keep In Trim

Learn To Spot Double Talk

Everybody loves to eat. Nobody wants to be fat. It is easy to understand the longing for a magic diet by which calories disappear in some mysterious metabolic process. Far-fetched fads may sound so intriguing that even intelligent people are tempted to listen to the sweet music of promise. A reader, hopeful that the following statement might possibly be the magic solution to creeping poundage, inquiries:

Ida Jean Kain

"Is it true that some foods require more calories to digest than they furnish? If so, it would be quite an aid to reducing," she comments.

—:—

IT IS not true. There is no diet plan by which you can disregard the total calories consumed. Under the beguiling title "Eat, Eat, Eat Your Pounds Away," here is the excerpt from the article which apeared in a chic fashion magazine: "Some foods to be digested, require such elaborate chemical changes that they use up in the process more calories than they contribute. A hard - cooked egg, for instance, represents 80 calories. Yet it requires 92 calories to digest. The extra 12 calories must be drawn from the body's fat reserves."

The beauty - writer of the article then jumped to the fantastic conclusion that "the more you eat of these 'minus - calories' foods the more fat reserves you must deplete to digest them and consequently the more weight you will lose."

Readers, use your reasoning powers. Learn to spot the pseudo-scientific diet double-talk, so you can separate fact from fad. Here are the facts:

The eating of food causes an increase in metabolism. This stimulus which food gives is termed the specific dynamic action of food. Carbohydrate and fat cause the least rise; protein the greatest. Therefore, a diet high in protein leads to a slightly greater weight loss than does a diet with less protein but the same number of calories. But you cannot eat a diet of pure protein. Most high protein foods are about 50 per cent fat.

THE FALLACY back of the ridiculous statement that "the more you eat of these foods the more you lose" is this: The author has blithly ignored the calories which the foods contributed. Protein furnishes fuel at 113 calories per ounce and fats furnish 255 calories per ounce. If the fuel "calories" consumed add up to more than your daily requirements, you will gain, not lose weight.

The best reducing diet to date is the time - honored, scientifically - planned, balanced low-calorie food pattern made up of a variety of protective foods. The scientifically - planned diet is more sensational in positive results than faddy fare ever could be.

Send stamped, self - addressed, long envelope for the new Calorie Chart, which includes the basic protective food pattern. Address your request to Ida Jean Kain in care of The Review.

Cleveland 'Stop, Frisk' Case Set For Court Study

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court Monday added a "stop and frisk" case from Cleveland to its scheduled study of police street practices next term.

The case involves the street arrest of two men, John W. Terry, 33, and Richard D. Chilton, 28, and their subsequent convictions on charges of carrying concealed weapons.

They were frisked by a policeman on the sidewalk in front of a department store. The officer had observed them for some time and concluded their behavior was suspicious.

Counsel for Terry and Chilton asked the court to decide whether a policeman, "acting upon bare suspicion alone" and "where no emergency exists", can stop, frisk and search people for a weapon on the street.

The Supreme Court last March agreed to hear two stop-and - frisk cases from New York next term. The police practice will be measured against the prohibition the 4th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution puts on unreasonable searches and seizures.

The Terry and Chilton convictions were affirmed by the court of Appeals for Cuyahoga County. Last October the Ohio Supreme Court dismissed their appeals.

2 Suffer Wounds In Bank Robbery

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—A customer and an employe were wounded by shotgun fire Monday afternoon as two men robbed a bank branch at a busy Toledo shopping center.

The robbers, one carrying a shutgun and the other an automatic pistol, fled with an undetermined amount of money after holding up the Lucas County State Bank branch at Monroe St. and Central Ave. shortly after 4 p.m.

They were believed to have escaped in a Cadillac which was reported missing immediately after the theft.

Group To Ask LBJ For Probe Of Trial

CINCINNATI (AP)— A civic group from a predominantly Negro area of Cincinnati plans to ask President Johnson to order an investigation of the trial and conviction of Posteal Laskey Jr.

Robert C. Weaver, president of the Evanston Business and Professional Association, said an appeal to the President was the only thing left since Ohio authorities declined to appoint a special grand jury to probe the case.

Laskey, a 29-year-old Negro laborer, was convicted last March of the murder of Barbara Bowman, a white woman. He was sentenced to death, but the case is being appealed.

Workers Return At Struck Plant Despite Pickets

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP) — About half the work force at the strikebound Stevens Manufacturing Co. in nearby Lexington was back on the job Monday, despite picketing at the main gate.

No incidents were reported.

More than 300 employes--mostly office workers--returned to their jobs Monday after Richland County Common Pleas Court last Thursday issued an injunction against Local 709, International Union of Electrical Workers, prohibiting it from interfering with plant operations.

The court also limited the number of pickets to 12.

The company -- which makes electrical components -- employs about 570 workers and some 300 are members of Local 709.

Phillip Beasley, Local 709 president, said a major issue in the walkout-which began May 11 -- is a union shop. Some of the production workers who returned to the plant Monday are not union members.

A dollar bill has an average life expectancy of 18 months in circulation.

A Junior Editors Quiz About WEST POINT

QUESTION: Why was West Point started?

ANSWER: Early in our history as a nation, George Washington and other Revolutionary leaders realized it was important for the United States to establish a high class military academy. In the Revolution, the U.S.A. had the help of foreign military experts. Later, it was felt, the new nation should train her own. Accordingly, Congress authorized the establishment of a military academy in 1802, which began as a training school for engineers, with five officers in charge and 10 cadet students. West Point, in New York state, is a spur of land projecting into the Hudson River at a point where the river narrows sharply. A fort had been erected there which had been important in preventing British ships from sailing further upriver. It was still a strategic area and so was a natural selection as a site for the new academy—which is usually spoken of as West Point. Under the leadership of Major Sylvanus Thayer, the academy began to turn out large numbers of highly trained officers, helping to raise the efficiency of the United States army. This is still West Point's mission.

Goes All Out To Block Construction

Pennsylvania Spurs War On Canal

HARRISBURG, Pa. (Special) —Army engineers have been advised by Gov. Raymond P. Shafer that Pennsylvania will do everything in its power to block construction of the proposed Lake Erie - Ohio River Canal.

He charged to Lt. Gen. William F. Cassidy, chief of engineers, that the act of 1935 which provided congressional authorization for the canal had been abrogated by substantial changes in planning.

"In an opinion dated May 25, 1940, Robert H. Jackson, then attorney general of the United States, advised the President of the United States that the act of 1935 was no longer effective to permit the engineers to proceed with any work on the project," the governor wrote Gen. Cassidy.

THE CHEIF of Army engineers had communicated with the governor concerning the proposal and apparently took the position that a congressional appropriation of $500,000 this year, for preconstruction planning, amounted to authority to proceed with construction.

Shafer said the state will fight that view. He listed eight ways in which Pennsylvania will resist:

1. — "The Commonwealth will not provide the United States any lands or rights-of-way required for construction and subsequent operation of the project.

2. — "The Commonwealth will not hold and save the United States free from damages due to the construction, operation and maintenance of the project.

3. — "The Commonwealth will not bear any costs associated with the bridge alterations over the existing channels of the Beaver, Mahoning and Grand Rivers.

4. — "The Commonwealth will not assume any obligations for operation and maintenance or for replacing any railroad or highway bridges required to be altered or constructed as a part of the multi - purpose project.

5. — "The Commonwealth will not provide any assurances for the construction and maintenance of terminal and transfer facilities along the waterway and at the Lake Erie terminus.

6. — "The Commonwealth will not accomplish any utility relocations and alterations occasioned by the project.

7. — "The Commonwealth will not agree to any restrictions concerning the withdrawal of water for consumptive use.

8. — "The Commonwealth will not provide any funds required for construction or operation and maintenance of the facilities which are subject to cost-sharing under Public Law 89-72."

—:—

"SINCE THE Commonwealth of Pennsylvania does not and will not support authorization, construction, maintenance or operation of the Lake Erie - Ohio River Canal, we feel the planning on the project should be suspended," Shafer wrote.

"We urge that funds which were included in the President's 1968 fiscal civil works budget for advanced engineering and designed should not be appropriated."

Study Of Funds Due For Highway Patrol Building

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The State Controlling Board is expected to consider a request Thursday for release of $123,890 for constructing a Highway Patrol post building at Marietta.

The Ohio Department of Highway Safety asked authority to enter into contracts with W. H. Heiby Co., Marietta, general contractor; Bergen Brothers, Inc., Marietta, plumbing; Morrison Inc., Marietta, heating and ventilating, and Pickering Electric Co., Marietta, electric.

The board also is expected to consider a request from the Department of Mental Hygiene and Correction for $145,000 in emergency funds to meet personal service payrolls through June 30.

Company Offers $5,000 Reward In Acts Of Sabotage

CINCINNAT (AP) — A claim by the strikebound Cincinnati Gas & Electric Co. that there have been seven acts of sabotage to its equipment brought a company offer Monday of $5,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of anyone tampering with its facilities.

The offer came in the wake of a power failure Friday night caused by a break in a 13,200-volt cable which, in turn, caused a fire and explosion in the company's west end power plant.

That knocked out electricity in parts of Cincinnati and in Newport and Covington, Ky. for a time. The Saturday, the company cut off all electricity in cincinnati's downtown area for six hours to make repairs.

C.G. & E. has been involved in a strike by 1,500 members of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers since May 10. Except for the weekend power breaks, service has been maintained by supervisory help.

Goes All Out To Block Construction

Pennsylvania Spurs War On Canal

HARRISBURG, Pa. (Special) —Army engineers have been advised by Gov. Raymond P. Shafer that Pennsylvania will do everything in its power to block construction of the proposed Lake Erie - Ohio River Canal.

He charged to Lt. Gen. William F. Cassidy, chief of engineers, that the act of 1935 which provided congressional authorization for the canal had been abrogated by substantial changes in planning.

"In an opinion dated May 25, 1940, Robert H. Jackson, then attorney general of the United States, advised the President of the United States that the act of 1935 was no longer effective to permit the engineers to proceed with any work on the project," the governor wrote Gen. Cassidy.

THE CHEIF of Army engineers had communicated with the governor concerning the proposal and apparently took the position that a congressional appropriation of $500,000 this year, for preconstruction planning, amounted to authority to proceed with construction.

Shafer said the state will fight that view. He listed eight ways in which Pennsylvania will resist:

1. — "The Commonwealth will not provide the United States any lands or rights-of-way required for construction and subsequent operation of the project.

2. — "The Commonwealth will not hold and save the United States free from damages due to the construction, operation and maintenance of the project.

3. — "The Commonwealth will not bear any costs associated with the bridge alterations over the existing channels of the Beaver, Mahoning and Grand Rivers.

4. — "The Commonwealth will not assume any obligations for operation and maintenance or for replacing any railroad or highway bridges required to be altered or constructed as a part of the multi - purpose project.

5. — "The Commonwealth will not provide any assurances for the construction and maintenance of terminal and transfer facilities along the waterway and at the Lake Erie terminus.

6. — "The Commonwealth will not accomplish any utility relocations and alterations occasioned by the project.

7. — "The Commonwealth will not agree to any restrictions concerning the withdrawal of water for consumptive use.

8. — "The Commonwealth will not provide any funds required for construction or operation and maintenance of the facilities which are subject to cost-sharing under Public Law 89-72."

—:—

"SINCE THE Commonwealth of Pennsylvania does not and will not support authorization, construction, maintenance or operation of the Lake Erie - Ohio River Canal, we feel the planning on the project should be suspended," Shafer wrote.

"We urge that funds which were included in the President's 1968 fiscal civil works budget for advanced engineering and designed should not be appropriated."
